GERMANS CONTINUING WITHOUT RELAXATION OFFENSIVE IN EAST

Forces That Pinched Przemysl Are Battering Their Way Eastward.

ENCIRCLING LEMBERG?

Italy Taken Into the Financial Circle of Nations Fighting Germnay.

Agreement Has Been Reached to Pool Resources.

London, June 7.—If the Germans have transferred troops to the West, as reported, they have held sufficient men in the East to continue without relaxation the offensive that has carried them with the Austrians almost across Galicia.

The forces that pinched Przemysl into surrender are battering their way eastward, and, according to both the German and Austrian official communications, at one point in the Southeast, are hardly more than 60 miles from the Russian frontier. The troops which swept through Stry have continued farther east until they are 30 miles beyond that town and equally beyond Lemberg, the position of which appears perilous.

Farther north, they are 18 miles to the East of Przemysl, so that, roughly speaking, the encircling movement on Lemberg is duplicating that at Przemysl.

On Offensive in Baltic Provinces.

The Germans also are on the offensive in the Baltic provinces. Their official statement records the crossing of the river Windau, Southeast of Libau.

A Petrograd dispatch received in London tonight says:

"Telegrams from Riga report the Germans active to the North, Northeast and East of Libau. The military authorities expect heavy fighting at Mostzisk, where the Russians will make a determined stand."

Hard fighting and heavy losses on both sides, notably north of Arras, where the French seem determined to nibble their way forward, continue in the west, but the contests are hardly more than trench warfare contrasted with the fighting in Galicia.

Repeated Zeppelin raids on England have aroused British airmen to extraordinarily vigorous actions, a raid on a Zeppelin shed near Brussels and the bringing down of a Zeppelin with its crew near Ghent being carried out at about the same time. The British official account does not state whether the hangar attacked held a Zeppelin, but a message reaching London asserts that it did.

Italy has been taken into the financial circle of the nations warring against Germany. At a recent meeting of the British chancellor of the exchequer and the Italian minister of the treasury an agreement was reached to pool resources, just as Great Britain, France and Russia had previously agreed.

BERLIN OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Review of Developments in All Theatres From German Viewpoint.

Berlin, June 7 (via London), June 7.—The war office issued the following statement today:

"Western theatre:

"The French renewed their attacks on the Southern slope of Lorette Hills during the afternoon and evening of yesterday. Their attacks broke down completely under our fire. Further attempts to attack during the night were stopped at the outset.

"The enemy attacked unsuccessfully this morning southeast of Hebuterne, east of Doullen. The battle has not yet come to a conclusion. A French attacks extending ver the large front at Moulin-Sous-Toutvent, northeast of Soissons, was for the greater part repulsed immediately. In oly one place did the attack reach our outer trenches, for possession of which fighting continues.

"Our position at Vauquois was attacked yesterday. Notwithstanding the employment of incendiary implements which covered our trenches with slightly burning liquid the French did not succeed in penetrating into our position. The enemy fled back into his own trenches, with heavy losses.

"Eastern theatre:

"North of Kurschany our cavalry forced a passage across the Windau and advanced in a southeasterly direction. Southeast of Kurtowian and in the region east of Rawdyniki our offensive made good progress and an additional 3,340 prisoners and ten machine guns fell into our hands. South of the Niemen the bank of the river has been cleared of all enemies as far as the line from Tolousle to Sapiesyszki.

"Southeastern theatre:

"During the battles at Przemysl 33,805 prisoners were taken.

"East of Przemysl the troops of the

VIOLENT FIGHTING IN WESTERN ZONE

"We Are Following Up Our Progress," Says Paris Report

SUCCESSES RECOUNTED

Germans Multiplying Desperate Efforts to Recapture Trenches "We Took From Them" Sunday—Many Dead and Prisoners.

Paris, June 7.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"In the sector north of Arras violent fighting continues and we are following up our progress. There has been an artillery engagement throughout the whole day without interruption and of a violent nature in the Fond de Buval, at Ablain, at Souchez, at Neuville and at Ecurte.

"At Neuville we continue the investment of the group of houses occupied by the enemy in the western section. At the 'labyrinth' we have directed on the center of the work convergent attacks which are making progress and we have reached at two points the central shelter of the position. Several counter-attacks have been repulsed.

"An atteck by us southeast of Hebutern has been completely successful. We carried by assault two of the enemy's lines and the Toutvent farm, taking 400 unwounded prisoners, of whom seven were officers, and capturing some machine guns. Several hundred bodies of German dead were found on the ground.

"A single German counter attack was delivered, but this immediately was checked.

"To the north of the Aisne the enemy has multiplied his disperate efforts to recapture the two lines of trenches which we took from him yesterday. After having brought up reinforcements in automobiles for a distance of 80 kilometres, (about 50 miles) the enemy made a furious center attack but was completely repulsed.

"Two thousand German killed were left on the ground. We made 250 prisoners, among whom were an artillery officer and 28 non-commissioned officers. We captured six machine guns and many others were found under the ruins.

Destroying War Implements.

"We have destroyed by melinite the three '77' pieces which fell into our hands yesterday. They were down behind the second German trench which we occupied and it was not possible to bring them into our lines by reason of the violence of the fire.

"Between Soissons and Rheims we have cut down several local attacks and thrust them back about 100 yards

French Mine Layer Strikes a Mine—Reports of Destructive Work by Undersea Craft Are Numerous—In Many Places.

Berlin, June 7 (via Wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The following statement was given out here officially today:

"A German submarine on June 4 sank the Russian cruiser Amur, of the second class, near a Baltic port."

A semi-official Petrograd statement last night said the Russian warship Yenisei had been sunk in the Gulf of Riga by a German submarine. The Amur, a mine layer of 2,926 tons, was a sister ship to Yenisei, and the names of these vessels may have been confused, apparently only one of them having been sunk.

) GERMAN ARMED STEAMER SUNK

Destroyed by British Shell Fire in Germany Territory.

Loindon, June 7.—The German armed steamer Herman von Wissmann has been destroyed near Sphynxhaven, according to a statement given out this evening by the British official press bureau.

The statement says the Hermann von Wissmann was destroyed by shell fire of a British naval force. The steamer had been lying in Lake Nyassa, Southeast Africa, since her disablement by the Nyassaland steamer Gwendolyn last August.

Shpinxhaven is in German territory on the eastern shore of Lake Nyassa. It was bombarded and captured May 30. The Germans were driven out with considerable loss by a bayonet charge. The only British casualty was one man slightly wounded.

BRITISH TRAWLER SUNK

The Arctic Destroyed by a German Submarine in North Sea.

London, June 7.—The trawler Arctic nas been sunk in the North sea by a German submarine. Five members of her crew were rescued but four lost their lives from the shell fire of the under water boat.

Among those killed was the skipper of the Arctic, whose head was blown off while he was helping to launch a boat in which the survivors escaped under cove rof fog. The submarine, it is asserted gave no warning before firing on the Arctic.

ANXIOUS TO LEAVE NOT ONE FLAW IN NOTE TO GERMANY

Has Not Been Subjected to an Hour's Unnecessary Delay Since Drafted.

NOT FORWARDED YET

Legal Officers Send it Back to Wilson With Some Alterations Recommended.

Washington, June 7.—President Wilson let it be known today that the note the United States is to send to Germany with respect to submarine warfare had been prepared with the utmost expedition and had not been subjected to an hour's unnecessary delay since it was first drafted.

The President's desire to have the document state explicitly the position of the United States so that it cannot possibly be misunderstood abroad or invite protracted discussion is responsible for the fact that the note has not gone.

Legal officers of the Government examined the note today and sent it back to the President with some changes. It may require further consideration by the President and his cabinet tomorrow, and high officials did not know tonight just when it would be cabled.

Questions of such serious moment are involved that the President is anxious that the communication not only shall meet his own wishes, but be unimpeachable from the point of view of international law experts.

Lusitania Was Unarmed.

While the President has been at work on the document, special government agents have corroborated in every detail the statement of the first American note that the Lusitania was unarmed. At the same time Meyer Gerhard, personal envoy of Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, has been voyaging to Germany carrying important messages from the German embassy concerning the American point of view on submarine warfare.

Gerhard's trip, however, was declared in high official quarters to have been merely a coincidence and in no way to have influenced the progress of the note.

When the document is made public, officials said, it not only would satisfy American public opinion but would place squarely before Germany the issue as to whether the imperial government intends to adhere to hitherto accepted principles of international law on maritime warfare.

Displeased at Newspapers.

The President has been displeased by numerous detailed accounts that have been published of what the note would contain when he himself had not settled finally on its contents.

He is anxious that misconceptions of the position of the United States shall not be cabled abroad, and that the American people shall suspend judgment until they read the text.

The general view in German quarters is that the recent trend of events gives hopes of a friendly adjustment. This is based not alone on the probable course of the German side of the negotiations but also on the American course, which is regarded as developing along lines which will permit of a satisfactory conclusion.

The most promising formula for a solution, according to the German view-

BETTER EDUCATION, NOT MORE SAYS FEW

President of Trinity College Sounds New Note.

REPORT TO TRUSTEES

Board of Trustees Hear Annual Reports and Transact Routine Business. Will Meet Again This Morning.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Durham, N. C., June 7.—"In nearly all our states education as an opportunity for every youth has been achieved. The watchword henceforth is to be not more education but better education." This striking utterance furnishes the keynote, from the standpoint of the public generally, of the very interesting annual report of President W. P. Few, of Trinity College, read to the board of trustees in its annual meeting here this afternoon.

Besides hearing the president's report, the board heard also the financial report and transacted considerable routine business before adjournment until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning was taken. The meeting of the board was the big feature of the second day of the annual commencement, which began last night with the baccalaureate address by Dr. Franklin N. Parker. Dr. Edwin Lee Wideman will be heard tomorrow.

President Few's Report.

Many matters of importance to the institution and of interest to its friends are brought up for consideration today in the annual meeting of the board of trustees of Trinity college. The item of chief importance was the annual report of the president, which shows an extensive growth in the institution along every branch of endeavor.

During the past year additions have been made on a very large scale to the buildings on the campus; and there has also been constructed one of the largest and best equipped athletic fields to be found anywhere in the Southern states. Several departments in the curriculum have been broadened; and special work and co-operation has been directed particularly to the Sunday school work in the State. Another publication has been established on the campus, the Alumni Register, which is devoted especially towards getting and maintaining records and information concerning the students who graduated from the institution in the past.

Reference is made in the president's report to the moving of Bishop Kilgo from the community to take up his residence in Charlotte; and a high tribute is paid to t he man who has devoted such long and untiring service to the upbuilding of Trinity.

The report of President Few to the board of trustees follows, in part:

"Despite the growing numbers of students we are every day doing more to strengthen the personal elements in education and to a ttain the end for which Trinity college primarily exists, that is, to bring the right kind of teacher into sympathetic and helpful contact with the right kind of student under conditions that will make for the highest success and happiness of both teacher and student. How best to do just this is the constant study of us all. The pioneer stage in

AVIATOR IN AN AEROPLANE DESTROYS ZEPPELIN IN AIR FOR FIRST TIME ON RECORD

German Aircraft a Blazing Mass, After Being Struck by Canadian's Bombs.

CREW OF 28 MEN KILLED

Believed to be Aircraft That Raided English East Coast Last Sunday Night.

Falls on Orphanage Building, Killing Several Inmates.

London, June 7.—For the first time on record a Zeppelin in the air has been destroyed by an aviator in an aeroplane. Reginald A. J. Warneford, a young Canadian sub-lieutenant in the Royal navy, who mastered aeroplaning only this spring, has performed the feat and tonight is somewhere within the British lines, while the Zeppelin sprawls a wreck on the roof and grounds of an orphanage near Ghent.

Falling there a blazing mass after being struck by the young aviator's bombs, its crew of 28 men were killed, as also were several occupants of the orphanage buildings.

Some believe this Zeppelin was the craft that raided the east coast of England last night, for since it was in the air over Belgium between Ghent and Brussels at 3 o'clock in the morning it possibly was returning from an expedition, not starting. Dawn breaks early these days and the huge Zeppelin could be sighted far off, and it is presumed that the craft was headed for her home hangar when Warneford came winging swiftly under the gray skies.

The Zeppelin, which was flying comparatively low, began to mount immediately, but the British airship was speedier and climbed into the air in long spirals, reaching a position at length over the Germans vast bulk. From this vantage point, Warneford pierced the Zeppelin's shell repeatedly with his incendiary bombs.

Without Parallel.

Without parallel in this war or any other, is the story which the young aviator will have to relate, for details of the fight have not yet been told. First came the long pursuit, for, according to the admiralty report, the aeroplane was 6,000 feet up. To reach this altitude would require nearly 20 minutes, and the Zeppelin meantime could drive forward approximately 15 miles.

Then followed the maneuvering for position, and finally the dropping of the bombs, from which the dirigible tried vainly to escape. Minor explosions occurred, and, at least, one of terrific force, and the Zeppelin burst into flames.

At that moment Warneford must have been at close range over the dirigible for almost simultaneously with the outburst his machne turned completely over, and for a moment he hung head down, his monoplane pitching and tossing in the swift currents of air which rushed up to fill the vacuum created.

Then by a desperate effort Warneford righted his machine far above the earth and planed to a landing behind the German lines. He alighted unhurt, set his propeller going again and flew off to the west.

Extremely Difficult Feat.

Whether the Zeppelin's machine guns or rifles were turned on the aviator is not disclosed, but to attain such an advantageous position, the British lieutenant must have handled his machine skilfully, for this is an extremely difficult feat.

Although the target the Zeppelin presents is extensive, it can be lifted by its own buoyancy to a great height, while the pursuing aeroplane has to rise to spirals by the power of its engine alone.

As the flight in midair occurred over the part of Belgium held by the Germans, hopes are raised in London that the Germans will be forced to move their Zeppelin basis eastward, thus making raids on England more hazardous.

Some reports say that the non-combatant victims were two nuns and two orphans, and that others were injured, but a Reuter dispatch tonight says two nurses and two children were killed and many others injured. All versions agree that the Zeppelin crew perished and this seems certain, as the great craft was struck while more than a mile in the air and must have been a roaring torch before it struck the earth.

The Raid Sunday Night.

In the raid on the east coast of England last night, the Zeppelin dropped incendiary and explosive bombs, killing five persons, injuring forty and causing two fires, according to an official announcement by the admiralty today.

The admiralty also announced an attack upon the airship shed at Evere, issuing this statement:

"This morning, at 2:30 p. m., an attack was made on the airship shed at Evere, north of Brussels, by Flight Lieutenant J. P. Wilson, S. R. N., and J. S. Mills, R. N.

"Bombs were dropped and the shed was observed to be in flames.

"It is not known whether a Zepoelin was inside, but the flames reached a great height, coming out from both sides of the shed. Both pilots returned safely."

Additional Details.

The Daily Telegraph's Rotterdam correspondent gives the following additional details of the destruction of the Zeppelin airship near Ghent:

"Sub-Lieut. Warneford was assisted in his attack on the Zeppelin by a French aeroplane. The aeroplanes pursued the Zeppelin a long distance, har-

VILLA WILL ASK CARRANZA TO AGREE TO CONFERENCE

Would Meet on Neutral Territory to Consider the Suggestions Made in President Wilson's Note, According to Telegram Received in El Paso Last Night—Thirteen Mexicans Executed.

El Paso, Texas, June 7.—General Villa has decided to ask General Venustiano Carranza to agree to a neutral territory for a conference to consider the suggestions contained in President Wilson's note, according to a telegram received tonight from Col. Enrique Peres Rul, private secretary to Villa. The telegram was dated Aguas Calientes.

"General Villa ordered his secretaries to come from Chihuahua to Aguas Calientes to draft the note to Carranza," says Col. Rul, "and also the reply he will send to President Wilson. Villa's ministers reached Aguas Calientes today."

THIRTEEN MEXICANS EXECUTED.

Three Generals and Ten Others Put to Death by Carranza Indians.

Brownsville, Texas, June 7.—Three Mexican generals and ten other Mexicans, connected previously with the army of General Eulalio Gutierres, were executed by Indians composing part of the Carranza army under Gen. E. P. Nafarrate, according to Carranza advices made public in Matamoras tonight.

The executions occurred some time last week at Aldamas, Nuevo Leon state, according to the messages at Matamoras.

It is asserted by Carranza officers that the three generals accompanied by ten men, had been permitted by Gutierres to withdraw from his army and start for the Texas border with a million and a half pesos with which to organize another revolution in Mexico. They were captured near Aldamas and promptly executed.

The list of executed included, according to statements in Matamoras, Generals Eugenio Aguirre Benavides, Julian Delgado and Guillermo Moran.

DEPARTS FOR VERA CRUZ.

Army Transport Leaves Galveston With Succor for Refugees.

Galveston, Texas, June 7.—The United States army transport Buford departed from Galveston tonight for Vera Cruz to succor refugees from the interior of Mexico. The transport has aboard sufficient rations for 500 persons for 20 days.

VILLA SUCCESS REPORTED.

His Forces Storm and Capture Obregon's Entire Advance Trenches.

Villa Headquarters at Silao, June 5, via Juarez, June 7.—A statement issued by Dr. S. B. Rauschbaum, a member of General Villa's staff, says:

"Yesterday we stormed and captured Obregon's entire advance trenches. At the same time we captured a great many prisoners. Obregon's army is surrounded by a ring of iron. He must shortly surrender or his forces starve."

LEAVING MEXICO CITY.

Hundred Americans and Many Others Leaving and Destitute.

Vera Cruz, Mex. June 7.—The American Consul General Arnold Shanklin, and the British consul at Vera Cruz, John S. Hutchison, departed today on a special train for Pachuca, where they expect to meet the foreigners whose departure from Mexico City has been arranged. Among the refugees, according to advices received by John R. Silliman, President Wilson's representative in Mexico, are 100 destitute Americans, 127 Spaniards and 44 Englishmen. They probably will reach Vera Cruz Friday.

PRIZE COURT HEARING POSTPONED TO JUNE 28

On Cases Affecting Cargoes of American Meat.

Postponement at Request of Counsel for the Owners of the Vessels and Scandinavian Consignees. British Not Responsible.

London, June 7.—The hearing in prize court of the cases affecting the cargoes of American meat on the steamships Friedland, Bjornstjerne Bjornsen, Kim and Alfred Nobel, was postponed today for three weeks. The postponement was granted at the request of counsel for the owners of the vessels and the Scandinavian consignees of the cargo. The government made it clear that the delay was granted on the assurance that the British authorities were not responsible.

Representatives of the Chicago packers stated they were not a party to the request for a delay and were anxious to have the matter go to trial.

Representatives of American owned cargoes which have been detained by order of the admiralty are becoming restless. They complain at the delay of the British government in settling claims for demurrage on ships which have been released. Under the ruling of the goverament, all these claims, with the possible exception of cotton cargoes which the government expects to purchase, will have to go to prize court for settlement. The government desires legal adjudication of the claims but in the case of the cotton cargoes may add the demurrage to the purchase price of the cotton.

MUCH SPECULATION AS TO THE POSSIBILITY OF PEACE

Set in Motion by Brief Visit to Washington of Prominent Citizen of Holland, Who Interviewed High German Officials First and Now Seeks to Influence German-American Editors in the North.

Washington, June 7.—Van Ghell Geldemeester, son of the religious adviser to Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, by a brief visit to Washington after conferences in Berlin with high German officials, has set in motion much speculation as to the possibility of peace in Europe.

Mr. Geldemeester, it became known today, saw Dr. Von Jagow, the German foreign secretary, and other members of the Imperial ministry shortly after the Lusitania was sunk, and received certain impressions concerning the German attitude toward the war and the ultimate making of peace. With the knowledge, though not with the authority, of the German officials, he started for Washington in the hope that informally he could portray German feeling in official quarters. On his arrival here last week, he visited Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador.

The ambassador emphasized tonight that Mr. Geldemeester carried no credentials from Germany and had absolutely no official connection with his government.

Mr. Geldemeester left Washington Saturday without seeing any prominent officials of the American government. He started on a trip to New York, Chicago and other cities with the idea of convincing the editors of German-American newspapers of the help they can render in promoting better and more friendly relations between Germany and the United States.

Peace Party in Great Britain.

While in Washington the visitor from The Netherlands gave the impression to those with whom he talked that there was a peace party of some importance in Great Britain as well as in Germany and that what was most needed now was a continued pressure by the neutrals for mediation. He intimated to some that he feared his own country—Holland—might be drawn into the conflict if it continued, but was hopeful that efforts by neutrals to mediate, if begun now, would be successful.

Most significant of the impressions which Mr. Geldemeester brought from Berlin, it was said today, was that a large section of the populace and an important element in the German government itself were not in sympathy with the extreme militarists, and believe a discussion of peace terms not undesirable.

Just how far Mr. Geldemeester may have been encouraged in Berlin to present his views to people in the United States is not definitely known. Jane Addams and others interested in peace, who recently have visited Berlin, have been cordially received by high German officials and in German quarters here lately there has been constant reference to the likelihood of peace growing out of the present correspondence concerning neutral rights.

In allied quarters here any talk of peace emanating from Germany is looked upon with much circumspection and doubt and the time is regarded as inopportune, with German troops on French, Belgian and Russian soil. It is suggested, too, that peace talk might be designed to divert the attention of the government and people of the United States from the serious issues involved in the sinking of the Lusitania.

Expected Back in Washington.

Mr. Geldemeester is expected back in Washington in a few days. He may not desire to see officials but to inform himself in other ways on the feeling

INQUIRY AT NAVAL ACADEMY IS BEGUN

Investigation of Charges Will be Far-Reaching.

MAY LAST TEN DAYS

Charges of Irregularities in Examinations Being Investigated—Admiral Fullam Testifies—Record of Evidence Read First Day.

Annapolis, Md., June 7.—That there was reason to believe attempts had been made to enter the daks of the heads of at least four Naval Academy departments to obtain examinations in advance was the testimony given late today by Rear Admiral Fullam, superintendent of the Academy, before the naval court of inquiry appointed by Secretary Daniels to investigate charges of irregularities in examinations.

The authorities believe, however, that only one attempt, succeeded. This was in the department of modern languages.

Annapolis, Md., June 7. — Investigation of charges of irregularities in examinations at the Naval Academy will be far-reaching and probably will last at least ten days, it developed at the first day's session of the Court of Inquiry appointee by Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

The reading of the record of testimony taken before the board of investigation appointed by Rear Admiral Fullam, superintendent of the Academy, occupied the court most of the day. Admiral Fullam was on the witness stand late in the afternoon, but did not finish his direct testimony, and will resume tomorrow.

The testimony read from the record showed that the examination papers for the first, second, third and fourth classes in Spanish, to all appearances were stolen and that after this there was a general dissemination from the hands of the friends of Midshipman James Moss, of the third class, of "good dope" for all of these classes.

The main point brought out was that the superintendent of the Academy and the board of inquiry held that the youths who used copies of these papers which Midshipman Moss had, and which it is claimed he received anonymously in a plain envelope, were more culpable than the youths who actually saw or used the originals.

Six members of the graduating class who on last Friday received their diplomas and became ensigns, were ordered called for examination as a result of the mention of their names.

New Developments.

MUNITIONS BILL IS GIVEN 2ND READING

Despite Opposition of Labor Members of Commons.

SUSPECT CONSCRIPTION

All New Members of Coalition Cabinet Appear on the Front Bench—Response to Kitchener's Appeal Satisfactory.

London, June 7.—Despite opposition by labor members, and by Sir Henry Dalziel, a radical liberal, the House of Commons today gave a second reading to the ministry of munitions bill and then sent the bill to a committee of the whole. The committee authorized the salary for the minister of munitions, who will be David Lloyd George. The salary is not to exceed $25,000.

Opposition to the measure was on the ground that it was in effect a move for the conscription of British labor. The bill will be discussed further tomorrow by the House when Premier Asquith has promised a detailed announcement concerning the government's attitude on recruiting and the munition question.

Premier Asquith announced that the response to Field Marshal Earl Kitchener's appeal for 300,000 recruits had been satisfactory.

Frederick G. Kellaway, aLiberal member, asked "whether the government has the power of stopping the mischievous campaign of a group of newspapers which endeavored to prevent men from joining the army by refusing to publish Lord Kitchener's appeal for more men, and violently attacking its conditions, and whether the government was aware that these attacks came from the same source as did the recent attacks on Lord Kitchener?"

Harold J. Tennant, parliamentary under-secretary for war, replied:

"The action of these journals has stimulated response to Lord Kitchener's appeal. It is believed the men required will be rapidly available."

Tennant's answer was greeted with cheers.

Mr. Kellaway asked assurance from the coalition government that "this malignant press will not be able to continue its attacks on the leaders of the nation." Mr. Tennent, however, said he thought that action was not necessory.

Home Secretary Simon, moving the reading of the bill establishing a ministry of munitions, explained that the new department would concern itself with supplies, but that the fighting departments would determine their nature and extent. The home secreary said the army wanted as many shells as organized industry was capable of producing and asquicking as possible.

The munitions bill evoked some opposition. W. M. R. Pringle, a liberal, advanced the argument that the bill gave the new minister unlimited power. He virtually was a dictator, Mr. Pringle said, and to supply munitions he could, if necessary, take the most radical steps in the coal fields.

Philip Snowden, a socialist, announced that if any attempt were made to thrust forced labor on the country, he would oppose it at every stage.

John Dillon, a nationalist, said:

"Before you say 'up, dictator,' we are entitled to know what his powers are to be. Certain newspaper are applauding the ideals of Prussianism. We must take care that the war does not result in the establishment of Prussianism in this country."

Will Crooks, the labor leader, declared the House could not make a greater blunder than to believe the country would submit to conscript labor. Secretary Simon replied that the bill had no such aim. If such powers were desired, it would be necessary to ask the consent of parliament.

was named in the previous record, also will be called.

The record publicly developed, for the first time, that two of the seven men regarded as most seriously involved by the disclosures before the previous investigating board, had not been recommended for dismissal by the board. These were T. W. Harrison, Jr., Virginia, and D. E. Duncan, Michigan, whose resignations, however, were asked for.

A custom has grown up at the Academy of receiving from professors advance matter concerning the most important part of the term's work. This is called "dope." Many midshipmen testified that they thought the information which was so generally disseminated was only this so-called "dope." However, others admitted that when they got into the examination rooms they felt sure they had advance copies of the examination. Many said they had not reported it because they thought some one of the upper classes should look to that.

The record also brought out the replies of the midshipmen directly accused when they were asked to give reasons why they should not be dismissed from the service. One was that they did not know they were on trial, and had, indeed, at least in one case, been told by Lieut. Albert Cohen, detailed to represent them as counsel, that they were not on trial.

They also stated as a reason for not being dismissed that they were convicted on their own evidence, and did not have an opportunity to cross-examine witnesses, and that they did not even hear this testimony.

Prior to the opening of the court, there was obtained from Judge Harrison, of Virginia, father of one of the accused midshipmen, a set of resolutions which, he said, were adopted by the first class of the Academy on graduation day.

Intended for Daniels.

Mr. Carlin, of counsel for the midshipmen, stated that this protest was to have gone to the Secretary of the Navy on the night of the June ball at the Academy last Thursday night, but that it was found impossible for some reason to deliver it.

The resolutions refer to Midshipman Ralph McK. Nelson, Jr., of New York, who stood third in the graduating class. He was not accused of cheating, but it was charged he knew unfair methods were being used.

The resolutions, in part, are as follows:

"Whereas, We, as a body, feel ourselves guilty in equal degree of the offense of which he is charged at this time, viz., failing to report having advance information of the annual examination in modern languages,

"We, members of the first class, do hereby testify to our personal knowledge of the integrity and honesty of our classmate, and we hereby unanimously resolve not to stand idly by while only he is punished for an offense of which hundreds of other midshipmen were guilty, but in the interests of honor and justice to him and to other midshipmen, we urgently request that an exhaustive re-consideration of the whole affair be made."

The ensigns who were graduated last week, but are now to be re-called to Annapolis to testify, are:

G. C. Kriner, H. O. B. Hunter, H. H. Harrington, R. R. Adams, H. D. Clark and W. S. H. Hactor.

DR. R. T. VANN AT WILSON.

Begins Work as Secretary of New Baptist Educational Board.

Wilson, N. C., June 7.—Before a large audience gathered in the auditorium of the First Baptist church Sunday morning Rev. R. T. Vann, D. D., of Raleigh, opened his campaign in the interest of Baptist educational institutions. Dr. Vann in concluding his address remarked happily to the audience, "I have spoken longer than I should, but it is because I have not learned my lesson well yet—after a while I will be able to do it in less time."

CHINA AND RUSSIA ON BETTER TERMS

Status of Outer Mongolia is Now Established.

TREATY JUST SIGNED

Believed to Mary Removal of One of Main Obstacles to a Complete Understanding—Mongolian Autonomy Guaranteed.

London, June 7.—A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd says that the special envoy of Russia, China, and Mongolia signed today Kiakhta, Siberia, the tripartite treaty regarding the autonomy of outer Mongolia. This treaty was agreed on after a conference that has lasted for nearly a year.

By the terms of the agreement China will retain a nominal suzerainty over Magnolia, but neither China nor Russia will interfere with the administration of Mongolia's internal affairs.

Washington, June 7.—The signing today at Kiakhta, Siberia, by representatives of Russia, China and Mongolia, of a treaty establishing the status of outer Mongolia, marks the removal of one of the main obstacles to a complete understanding between China and Russia, according to the view in diplomatic circles here.

According to some diplomatists, the new treaty really provides for a return to conditions that existed for nearly a century in Mongolia and up to the revolution of 1912, whereby Mongolia secured recognition of her independence by formal treaty with Russia. The substantial difference between the new and old order of things lies in the formal acceptance of Russia's dominating influence in the external relations of inner Mongolia.

The new convention provides for a joint guarantee by China and Russia of Mongolian autonomy conditioned upon the recognition of the right of China and Russia to be consulted in all questions affecting the external relations of Mongolia.

The "Living Buddha" is recognized as the head of the inner Mongolian government corresponding in the exercise of his functions to the "Grand Llame" in Tibet.

The treaty does not in any way affect inner Mongolia which remains under Japanese jurisdiction as confirmed in the treaties recently signed at Peking.

point, is one which would combine an agreement on the status of the Lusitania as an armed or unarmed ship, and also a general agreement guaranteeing immunity from attack hereafter to all unarmed ships carrying passengers.

One Way Out.

As to the Lusitania, the German position thus far has been that she was an armed ship. But when the United States government states definitely that its official information shows the ship was unarmed then it is suggested that the Berlin authorities will be in a position to accept this positive assurance from a friendly government notwithstanding any report Germany may have to the contrary.

The recent Von Jagow note, it is pointed out, was predicated on the view that the Lusitania was an armed ship, but did not assert the principle that unarmed passenger ships could be similarly sunk. It is maintained, therefore, that the principle of immunity to unarmed passenger ships is one which could be accepted by Germany as consistent with her attitude up to this time, and would give the largest measure of protection to Americans in the future. Such an agreement on the status of the Lusitania and the principle to govern unarmed passenger ships, it is generally admitted, would pave the way for a much wider adjustment of all the various conflicts which have arisen over American ships and the safety of the ships and the hope is expressed that this larger adjustment might even in turn lead to the supreme question of bringing the warring nations to peace.

VILLA DECIDES TO ASK CARRANZA FOR CONFERENCE ON WILSON NOTE

GENERAL VILLA

HAD PELLAGRA; IS NOW CURED

Hillsboro, Ala.—J. W. Turner, of this place, says: "I ought to have written you two weeks ago, but failed to do so. I got well and then forgot to write you. I can get about like a 10-year-old boy; you ought to see me run around and tend to my farm. I can go all day just like I used to. I am so thankful to know there is such a good remedy to cure people of pellagra."

There is no longer any doubt that pellagra can be cured. Don't delay until it is too late. It is your duty to consult the resourceful Baughn.

The symptoms—hands red like sunburn, skin peeling off, sore mouth, the lips, throat and tongue a flaming red, with much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea, either diarrhoea or constipation.

There is hope; get Baughn's big Free book on Pellagra and learn about the remedy for Pellagra that has at last been found. Address American Compounding Co., box 2097, Jasper, Ala., remembering money is refunded in any case where the remedy fails to cure.—Adv't.

OPPOSED TO ATTACKS ON DEMOCRATIC PARTY

National Woman Suffrage Conference Goes on Record.

Resolution Adopted Declares Congressional Union Has Done the Cause More Harm Than Good in America.

Chicago, June 7.—The National American Woman Suffrage Conference today went on record as opposed to attacks by the Congressional Union on the Democratic party. A resolution adopted unanimously also declared that the Congressional Union had failed to benefit in suffrage states and worked harm in states where women still were seeking the ballot.

Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, of Ohio, introduced the resolution and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw declared that the association did not sanction the activities of the Congressional Union and blamed the union for defeats in Nebraska and South Dakota.

That the association was distinctly opposed to the Union was shown when a resolution, introduced by Mrs. T. W. Youmans, president of the Wisconsin Woman Suffragists, proposing arbitration of the subject was tabled 49 to 25.

Mrs. Youmans, indignant, accused Dr. Shaw, president of the association, with "steam roller" tactics in declining to allow discussion of the resolution.

The alleged attitude of the Congressional Union in opposing political parties which oppose suffrage at Washington furnished the main topic of the day and was continued into an extemporaneous night session and it was believed will come up again tomorrow.

Originally the union was a part of the association, but the association no longer recognizes it, except as an organization whose so-called militant methods are regarded by the association as inimical to the best interests of the equal suffrage cause.

Among speakers on today's programme, in addition to Dr. Shaw, were Mrs. Medill McCormick, of Chicago; Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, and Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton.

YOUNG MAN DROWNS IN RIVER AT SOUTHPORT

Arthur Greer Loses His Life When Boat is Upset

Two Companions Narrowly Escape Similar Fate—Party of Four in Boat Which Strikes a Barge Anchor Chain.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Southport, N. C., June 7.—A very distressing accident occurred in the river here this morning, resulting in the death of one boy by drowning and the narrow escape of three other boys from the same fate.

Four boys, whose ages ranged from 12 to 15 years, took a row boat this morning and started for Battery Island to catch crabs on the low water. The boys were Man-Boy Fountain, Carry Murrill, Page Bussells and Arthur Greer. Right in mid-sream the barge Tuckahoe is anchored. Pulling ahead of the barge, with a strong ebb tide running, the small boat, with its four boys, two struggling at the oars, the boat was swapt down striking the anchor chain of the barge, upsetting the rowboat.

The boat had been seen by the crew of the barge. A line was thrown to Murrill, who seized it and hung on. A boat was dropped from the barge and went to the rescue of Fountain and Bussells, while the unfortunate Greer boy could not be located, disappearing in the river depths. He was the son of Mr. B. F. Greer, who with his wife have the sympathy of this community in their sudden bereavement.

DEATH OF DR. J. WALKER FLOYD

Highly Esteemed Physician of Columbus County Dies Suddenly.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Tabor, N. C., June 7.—Perhaps no incident in the history of this community has brought a greater degree of sorrow to a great number of hearts than the sudden death of Dr. J. Walker Floyd, which occurred twenty minutes after three last Frida yafternoon, after a very short illness, death ensuing almost immediately, after an attack of apoplexy. Only a few hours before his death he played with the children, and seemed to be recovering rapidly from a slight indisposition after a very important trip to Richmond, Va. There was no one in the room when the end came.

Dr. Floyd was a man of wide influence. As a physician, he enjoyed a very large practice and among all classes and conditions of men, he held a supreme confidence, respect and esteem that was vouchsafed to but few men. He was naturally retiring in disposition and while never striving for popularity, yet those who knew him well know that his constant desire was to serve and help his fellow man. He was a man devoted to home, loved not only by his own children, but also by every boy and girl throughout this entire section. A proof of this lies in the fact that he was untiring in his efforts to provide for the educational interest of the children and community.

SECOND FATALITY FROM MOTOR PUSH CAR ACCIDENT

Gus C. Williams Dies at Rocky Mount After Ten Days.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 7.—Battling against the great odds of a broken back and internal injuries sustained when a push car being propelled by a gasoline motor car jumped the track near Smithfield ten days ago, Gus C. Williams died at an early hour this morning in the Atlantic Coast Line Relief Hospital. Until within the last few days the physicians in charge of the hospital held out hope of the young man's getting well, and though he had sustained injuries almost identical with those of his companion who had died within 12 hours after the accident, Mr. Williams was conscious at times and greeted his brother, who came here from Jacksonville, Fla., to be at his bedside.

The remains will be taken to Falkstone, Ga., and interment will take place there probably Wednesday. This is the second fatality of the accident due to the derailment of a pusher occurring near Neuse river about Smithfield, ten days ago.

FUNERAL OF MR. H. WARREN HOOD

Service Conducted at Home at Southport—Large Attendance.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Southport, N. C., June 7.—All that was mortal of the late H. Warren Hood was committed to earth yesterday. The services were held by Rev. Mr. Parshley, of St. Philip's church, at the home on Moore street, also at the cemetery. The local lodge of Odd Fellows, of which he was a member, acted as pall-bearers. There was a very large number at the services, relatives and friends attending from outside. The floral offerings were banked in huge masses upon the grave.

Mr. Hood had been identified with Southport for many years, coming here first as a salesman, marrying a lady of one of the oldest families of this community, and finally becoming established here in business, dry goods, etc., and occupying a store building which would do credit to a much larger city than this. His mercantile success was constant and permanent. Of a retiring disposition, Mr. Hood was never prominent in local affairs, though always interested in matters of municipal concern. He had been treasurer of the Commercial Association previous to this year. In local trade circles he will be greatly missed.

Large Delegation Going to Salisbury to Pull for Grand Lodge.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 7.—"On to Salisbury and get the 1916 session of the Grand Lodge," is the watchword of a delegation of local Pythians who are leaving the city early tomorrow morning for Salisbury to attend the annual session of the grand lodge which convenes tomorrow morning in that city. It is planned that there shall not be a single Pythian in attendance at the session that doesn't know that Rocky Mount wants them for their next session.

TAKE UP SCHOOL BOARD CONTEST ON JUNE 22ND

State Board to Settle Matter in Three Counties

Chairmanship of New Hanover County Board Involved—Charters Issued. Baptist Education Board to Meet—Raleigh News.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 7.—The State Board of Education has decided to take up on June 22 the matter of the appointment of one member each on three county boards of education over which there were such sharp and bitter contests during the recent session of the Legislature that they failed of legislative appointment. They are in New Hanover, Warren and Currituck counties.

In New Hanover the contest is one purely of local politics and is being waged against Chairman J. O. Carr, of the board, who has for a number of years been a powerful factor in the great advances that have been made in both the Wilmington city and the rural districts. A very large element of the educational forces in Wilmington and New Hanover county are understood to be standing solidly behind Mr. Carr for re-appointment. Indeed, there is generally believed to be no doubt whatever of his re-appointment unless he should personally decline to serve longer, a possibility that is very remote, as the friends of education there are so insistant that it is not believed he could persist in any declination to serve. It is pointed out that under his management the Wilmington and New Hanover schools have come to be far more than ever one of the chief glories of the North Carolina public educational system.

The contests in Currituck and Warren counties involve the official heads of the present county superintendents of schools—J. M. Newbern in Currituck, and Howard F. Jones, in Warren. This is for the reason that the two members of the boards in these counties are divided as to re-election of superintendent so that their official heads depend on whether or not the State board will appoint a man in each county favorable to their re-election.

Charters Issued.

A charter was issued today for the Piedmont Land Co., of Charlotte, capital $125,000 authorized and $3,000 subscribed by B. D. Heath, G. M. Barnhardt and J. L. DeLaney for general real estate development and investments.

Another charter is for the Parks Land Co., of Charlotte, capital $50,000 authorized and $1,000 subscribed by D. P. Hutchison, E. O. Anderson, Chas. F. Dallon, E. C. Griffith, for real estate development.

During the convention Mr. Shipman is to deliver an address on "Labor Conditions in the South."

To Install Dr. Vann.

Tomorrow at Durham there will be the formal induction into office of Dr. R. T. Vann as secretary of the new Baptist State Board of Education, created by the last Baptist State Convention in session here, Dr. Vann having just retired from the presidency of Meredith College to take up this new work. He will continue to reside in Raleigh for the present. In addition to the members of the Baptist Board of Education there will be at the meeting in Durham tomorrow the presidents or other chief officers of the various Baptist colleges and preparatory schools in the State and a general conference as to the interests of these institutions as relates to their denominational work in educational effort.

The First Presbyterian church here has just opened for use a splendidly appointed and roomy annex to the Sunday school section of this excellent church building. The annex is especially designed for accommodation of the infant classes of this very large and constantly growing Sunday school.

COMMENCEMENTS AT SALEMBURG.

Pineland School for Girls and Public Schools Give Splendid Exercises.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Salemburg, N. C., June 7.—The closing exercises of the Pineland School for Girls and the public schools here gave evidence of the fact that Salemburg is becoming quite an educational center. Prof. R. L. Pittman, assisted by Misses Vera Howard, Lutie Underwood and Frances Babcock, had charge of the public schools the past year, to the satisfaction of the people generally. The closing exercises of the public school took in two nights and one afternoon.

In the afternoon there was a debate on "Woman Suffrage," by Haywood Lockerman and Yates Newton for, and Kirby Hall and Charles Howard, against. The negative was awarded the decision of the judges. The programmes for the nights' exercises were fine and well carried out on the part of all.

Professor Pittman goes into the Pineland School for Girls next session and Venon Baggett, of Chapel Hill, becomes principal of the public school. Eight acres of land has been purchased on which to erect better buildings and for farm and garden demonstration work.

The commodious concrete building of the Pineland School for Girls is one of the most complete in its arrangement and equipment of any to be found anywhere. There are three other large buildings, with a small one, besides a large barn and stables situated on the five-acre school lot. In addition to this there is a tract of 17 acres adjoining the school lot, owned by the school and available for school purposes as occasion demands. It is now the school farm, and large crops are made. Principal Jones says he has produced two bales of cotton per acre and 110 bushels of corn. This is a great asset to the boarding department of the school.

The last commencement of Pineland School for Girls occupied four days. The grammar school under Miss Beryl Beam highly entertained the first night. The second night, the music director, Miss Bertha Newton, led about 32 girls of the glee club in giving a high class household Japanese scene. On the afternoon of the third day, her class gave their recital to an appreciative audience. The play at night in charge of Misses Park and Tillett was well rendered and enjoyed by all. There were two gold medal contests the fourth day, one for original speeches and the other for declamations. The finals consisted in awarding medals and diplomas to the winners.

The president announced that the prospects for next session, which opens in September, are very gratifying, and that a department of sociology is to be established. In addition to lectures, practical demonstration will be given in gardening, farming and poultry raising.

COMMENCEMENT AT ORPHANAGE.

Dr. B. W. Spilman Makes Principal Address at Kennedy Home.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., June 7.—The first annual commencement exercises at the Kennedy Memorial Home, the East Carolina Baptist orphanage near here, were held this afternoon. Dr. B. W. Spilman, field Sunday school secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention, made the principal address. The home was opened late last summer, and the report of the superintendent showed splendid progress since then. The inmates of the orphanage now number about half a hundred, but it is expected in the next two or three years to make the institution as important as the parent orphanage at Thomasville and make it the home of three or four hundred children.

RATES HELD REASONABLE.

Petition of Charlotte and Rock Hill Not Allowed.

Washington, June 7.—Freight rates on carload lots of cast iron pipe from East Radford and Lynchburg, Va., and Anniston, Ala., to Charlotte, N. C., and Rock Hill, S. C., were held reasonable today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The commission dismissed complaints of the cities of Charlotte and Rock Hill, that the rates violated the long and short haul claims.

THE PRESIDENT INVITED.

To Attend Negro Exposition at Richmond This Summer.

Washington, June 7.—A committee of Virginans headed by Governor Stuart, Representative Flood and John Skelton Williams called at the White House today and invited President Wilson to attend a negro exposition to be held in Richmond July 5 to 27. Members of the committee said afterward they believed the President would accept.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

No life can be pure in its purpose or strong in its strife,
And all life not be purer and stronger thereby.
—OWEN MEREDITH.

The French are now using a bomb which contains laughing-gas. Just tickling the enemy to death, so to speak.

Servia has decided to fight again. A few months ago she decided to quit fighting, as it didn't pay her to fight against odds.

"What do women like in men?" Well, for one thing they like to see a disposition in men to recognize their responsibility to the family.

It used to be so that when a fellow was "on top" he was considered a winner. However, every old sea dog has to beware of the underdog of the sea.

Politics has gotten into the schools of Atlanta. It is a pity, because the school children will learn something about the rottenness of politics in Atlanta.

Phil Armstrong, of the Jacksonville Times-Union, observes: "If you don't know yourself, ask your neighbor." Yes, but some neighbors can be depended upon to drink to your health and make you get stuck on yourself.

The only place where it is safe to blow out the gas is on the firing line where gas is a specialty of the enemy. What brave man cares to be suffocated in the trenches where he is willing to be shot to death like a gentle man?

Some doctor is now claiming that buttermilk is an intoxicant. However, buttermilk will be regarded as a merized drink till it gets so that a stiff drink of it will make a man afraid to go home and pass muster by giving his mother-in-law the countersign.

Marconi has invented an electric device by which we can seen through a brick wall. There are those who care not to see through any brick wall. They would prefer a way to go through a brick wall and get it between them and those who are giving them a run for their money.

Whenever a politician acquires a large zone of influence and does not care to recognize us as anything but a small potato, he's a boss. However, if he makes us a lieutenant in his gone army, we naturally salute him as our peerless leader till he gets into trouble and needs help.

Inconsistency is what we charge a fellow with when we want to convince him that he has no right to change his opinion or attitude when he finds out he has been mistaken. A man who lies and sticks to it is consistent, but that doesn't help him if there is proof to the contrary.

A biological theorist says, "it is quite within the possibilities that the American woman of the future will be another Amazon." Another one, is it? She is no amazon at this time. She is only a traditional buttonhole bouquet with a recently conceived determination to insist on being recognized as the whole flower garden.

Doc Cook is on his way to the Himalayas to scale Mt. Everest, the highest mountain in the world. When he returns he may be asked to prove it by a photograph of the "Fourth of July" cut on a rock at the very top of the top by some other American who is liable to claim that he straddled the top of Mt. Everest when it was only a potato hill.

Some people despise the nobility, but when one of its members goes to the front and risks his life for his country, most of us will be only too glad to greet him as a comrade if he will only meet us on half way ground, lying considerably in rear of the front. Indeed, if he has previously done anything to disgrace the family, his bravery and patriotism entitle him to another chance in life.

THE COTTON SEED OIL INDUSTRY.

Italy and Greece having placed an embargo on the shipment of olive oil, it is said that a notable consequence is a wonderful impetus to the cottonseed oil industry of the United States. Restricted shipments of olive oil gives a larger home market for cotton oil and its valuable compounds. Some of the best olive oil that has been coming to America was produced in both European and Asiatic Turkey, but inasmuch as Turkey's commerce has been stopped, there can be no further shipments of olive oil from that source.

The Pittsburg Dispatch calls attention to the fact that last year the South produced four million barrels of cottonseed oil and that the exportation of this valuable Southern product to foreign countries is rapidly increasing. Its exportation, it is predicted, will reach 850,000 barrels this year. Referring to our cotton oil industry and the prospects for it, the Pittsburg paper says:

"There is practically no competition at home. Cocoanut, olive and other vegetable oils that formerly came here in large quantities are now very scarce. Cottonseed oil is replacing them. The bargain prices at which the oil has heretofore been sold have given an extraordinary impetus to compound lard and imitation butter manufacturing. The consumption of these products is now said to be increasing faster than ever. So important a substitution in food products is worth the consideration of all interested in the living cost problem and even of all interested in the general industrial situation as affected by food, since it indicates that it is likely, no matter what imported food people have been accustomed to, an American substitute for it can be found."

In the absence of olive oil, the cottonseed article will largely take its place and the people of this country will learn to know that they have a home product far more useful and desirable than they supposed. Thousands of families in the South have never used either refined cotton oil or any of the fine cooking compounds made with it as the chief basis. The manufacturers now have a fine opportunity to introduce it and prove how meritorious it is.

Reputable manufacturers won't have any trouble in convincing the people of the United States that for cooking purposes the cotton oil product is not only pure but wholesome and indispensable.

INJURIOUS TO SHIPPING INTEREST

Whether the La Follette Seamans' Act, passed by the last Congress, will prove generally detrimental to American shipping or not, the shipping men say so and will take steps to protect themselves from the loss they feel certain they will sustain by reason of the act. About the only way they can save themselves, they contend, is to discontinue the lines and tie up their ships.

That is what the Dollar Steamship Company, of San Francisco, proposes to do. The act becomes effective on the 2nd of November, and Mr. Robert S. Dollar, president of the company, states that his ships will apply for registry under some other nation's flag. The Pacific Mail Steamship Company also probably will discontinue sailings on and after July 31. The company is booking no more freight for the Far East and has notified the transcontinental railroads not to concentrate freight at the Pacific ports for shipment.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company is in a position to make Uncle Sam feel the weight of his own law. It operates five steamships, and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad Company has notified the government at Washington that, in view of the action of the steamship companies, it cannot quote rates for the transportation of government supplies and war materials to Manila. Inasmuch as these are the only American steamships operating between San Francisco and Manila, the government will have to charter ships and send them from Atlantic ports by way of the Panama Canal.

In its provisions, the La Follette act provides for regulations which will greatly increase the expenses of the steamship companies. Therefore, they claim, they cannot compete with foreign shipping companies, hence they will have to give up the business or take registry with another nation. Pity, if true.

MOTION PICTURES ON DINING CARS

With the possible exception of the automobile industry, probably no new enterprise has so quickly developed to such tremendous proportions in so short a period of the history of America as has the manufacture and the exhibition of motion pictures. Even young folks can well remember with what wonder and amazement the earlier crude moving pictures were seen in this country only a few years ago. The development of every phase of the industry has been marvelous. So rapid has been the improvement in the technique of the pictures that the best feature of five years ago would be considered almost crude today, while the best of ten years ago would be amusing only for their crudeness. The average "movie audience" would readily take one of them as a burlesque on the real modern article.

Many millions of dollars have been invested in the production of plays and the manufacture of films, while many more millions have been invested in local photoplay houses. Millions are being paid weekly in salaries to the actors who work before the camera, while millions of men and women other than the actors are engaged in one phase or another of the motion picture industry. The vastness of the industry, which has developed from the ground up in less than ten years, is almost beyond comprehension.

The industry is being constantly developed in new directions. It has accomplished many feats that even five years ago had not been thought of and would not have been considered possible. It has brought the whole world before our eyes, as the telegraph has brought the world to our ears, as it were, with its vibrating and pulsating news of the world's activities. Gigantic corporations, with immense capital, are engaged in the production of photoplays, which bring to Wilmington for a nickle or a dime famous stars of the stage that never heard of Wilmington.

The end is not yet, nor in sight. While motion pictures have invaded every possible field of activity, it is announced that now they are to be shown on the transcontinental passenger trains en route to the Panama-Pacific Exposition. One of the big film corporations has completed arrangements for pictures to be shown on the diners of the principal railroads of the country en route to the Pacific coast.

It is said that the general passenger agents of the roads that have contracted for this uniqus and novel service are enthusiastic over the idea, because it will eliminate the "greatest objection to long railroad journeys hitherto" in the lack of amusement which the passengers have suffered. It is said that the best and highest class pictures, by leading stage artists, can now be seen by the transcontinental trippers while they are speeding at 60 miles an hour across mountains and plains, amidst the luxurious surroundings of the dining cars, which have been refitted for the purpose, as a regular evening's entertainment.

NO SHIELD FOR PRESIDENTS.

The office which a man may hold in the United States or a State does not keep him from being amenable to the laws of his country. Not even a President or one who has been President is shielded from the law if he violates it. Nevertheless, he may not be immune, yet always have a strong public sentiment in his favor. Probably that is what the New York World meant by saying:

"No jury of American citizens, if it can find a way out, is ever likely to return a libel verdict against a former President of the United States. * * * On the whole it is well that the American people feel that way towards the Presidency. * * * The country has a right to respect the office and if a man who has once been President fails at times to respect it, that is no reason why the people should change their inspiring attitude towards the Presidency itself."

The Columbia State says the World's declaration is "all rot," but The World possibly did save itself by saying "if it (a jury) can find the way out." The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot agrees with The State and correctly declares that "office confers no dignity on a man whose conduct does not lend dignity to the office." The man in the office can disgrace it, but because he has been President is nothing in his favor unless he deserves honor and respect on his own account. Neither should he tolorate flunkeyism if any one should be guilty of it, but dignified appreciation of high respect is what a democratic-republican people expect from their chief citizen till he deprives himself of honor and respect by his own act. So the Virginian-Pilot sizes it up right when it says:

"That there exists on the part of some people in this country a disposition to invest the Presidency with the 'diivnity that doth hedge about a king,' is unfortunately true, as it is also that there have been occupants of the White House who lent themselves to encouragement of an atmosphere of servility about the person of one who was, after all, but an upper servant of the people. During the period of a recent incumbency it was inculcated on Washington society that the etiquette of the President's Mansion was that of a palace of royalty, that an invitation from His Excellency was to have the weight of a summons to the King's presence, that at the executive table women were to stand and wait until their host was seated and served, et cetera. But all this is contrary to the essential spirit of a self-respecting democracy. Our highest ideal of an American President is that he should be an American gentleman, observant of his obligations and entitled to all courtesy and consideration as such. The office is an accident which may be either ennobled or degraded by its occupant. It is only a little higher in the scale of popular preferment than the Governorship of a great Commonwealth, and the theory of the World, if reduced to practice would demand for ex-Governor Sulzer obsequious respect because he once held a trust that he abused. The rank is but the guinea's stamp."

The World might refresh its memory about Colonel Roosevelt's own view of the Presidency and different Presidents we have had, by reading one of his books, in which he said about as hard things about them as he said about the Hon. Barnes.

"Honor," says the Book of Books, "is not seemly for fool." Neither is honor seemly for any official who does not do honor to the office and to his country and deserve honor for himself.

"THE LIGHTING PROPOSITION"

To the Editor of The Star:

With reference to the article of Mr. D. L. Gore, in Sunday's Star, headed "The Lighting Proposition."

Mr. Gore is laboring under a misapprehension in thinking that the Rotary club's petitions advocate more light in the locality mentioned. Our idea was simply that the present system of lighting Front street and Princess street, and the portion of Market street, now lighted with the arches overhead, is not in accord with good taste nor of a character appropriate to a city of the size of Wilmington.

We merely desire a change from the present system of unsightly overhead arches and ugly avenues of wooden poles, to a series of ornamental metal poles on the streets in question; thus securing just as much light and eliminating the unsightly features of the present system.

With reference to the term of the contract: The petition merely requests that a contract be executed which may be fair and equitable to both parties. The particular construction is necessarily a matter of adjustment between the Power Company and the Council, subject to the legal advice of the city attorney.

The plan as proposed by the Rotary Club does not involve any increased cost to the city or the taxpayers, and we desire to relieve Mr. Gore of his misapprehension in this respect, as well as to properly inform any other person who may have been lead to the same conclusion by his article.

Very truly yours,
MEARES HARRISS,
Secretary.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The reported intention of the Seaboard Air Line officials to extend their line from Rutherfordton to either Asheville or Marion, as mentioned in The Observer, attracted the instant attention of The Wilmington Star. That paper properly holds that the best possible connections Southern railroads can make now are with the Western lines. It would give our South Atlantic ports an outlet and give all the Middle West states connection with the ports nearest the Panama Canal. It would be great for the West as well as for the port of Wilmington, for the Seaboard to connect with the great Western trunk lines by simply extending the Carolina Central on to Asheville or Knoxville. "It is not very far across the mountains from Rutherfordton to the Hill lines to the West," continues The Star, "and it strikes us that no Southern railroad project would so appeal to capital as this proposed extension of the Seaboard westward. We would not be surprised to hear that there is truth in the rumor, and certainly it is a project that the port interests of Wilmington should agitate all the time." As The Observer has stated, the extension of the Seaboard from Rutherfordton to a Western connection is a project that has been in soak since the last spike was driven at the present Western terminus, and this paper is firmly of the belief that if preparations for taking up this long-delayed work of extension are not now under way, they will be in the course of the next two years.—Charlotte Observer.

For something more than two hundred farmers owning about six hundred cows the Clemson college creamery has sold in a few months butter of the value of $12,000. It has also sold for them four thousand dozen eggs. The big business has been done in the last four or five months. In the earlier months the routes were being started and organized. In this there is nothing very remarkable. It is a waste of time to throw bouquets at the agencies that have led in the achievement, much as they deserve them. What is remarkable is that the farmers of South Carolina did not at least fifteen or twenty years ago begin to practice intelligent methods of marketing. In scores of states co-operative creameries have been successfully carried on for years. If the farmers of Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania and other Eastern states had been as backward in the matter of producing and marketing milk as those of South Carolina have been, baby-raising in the cities of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington would have been an industry that only the richest families could have carried on—and the richest families, we believe, do not engage in it to an extent threatening over-production. In Texas, Kansas, Iowa, California, Washington, Oregon and even in Florida economical co-operation in marketing various farm products was long ago set on foot.—Columbia State.

If a woman cannot be a notary public, was the last meeting of the Legislature of North Carolina a lawful assemblage? That question is not as foolish as it may sound, for it is hardly a lawful assemblage that harbors persons who are breaking the law. The Supreme court ruled that women cannot be notaries because a notaryship is an office. But section 7, of arcle XIV, of the constitution of North Carolina reads as follows: "No person who shall hold any office or place of trust or profit under the United States, or any department thereof, or under this State, or under any other state or government, shall hold or exercise any other office or place of trust or profit under the authority of this State, or be eligible to a seat in either house of the General Assembly: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to officers in the militia, justices of the peace, commissioners for special purposes." How many members of the last General Assembly were notaries public at the time they were elected? More than one, we dare say. What, then, is the standing of a law introduced by a member who was a notary when he was elected? Can it be attacked on the ground that its sponsor was not legally entitled to his seat? Again, take the cases of Federal officers who are notaries public, of whom there are not a few in North Carolina. If their commissions were legally issued, what about the legal documents attested by them? In the course of years these have accumulated until now they must amount to thousands; must they all be sworn to all over again? This decision of the Supreme Court has a sweep that we believe was little suspected by most people. Of course, the court is constituted merely to interpret the law, not to correct the errors of legislators. But we believe Justice Allen and his confreres have given the suffragists a chance to raise cain in various ways, if that sort of activity appeals to them.—Greensboro News.

BICKETT DEPLORES EFFORTS TO PERPETUATE FACTIONAL LINES

Makes Appeal to Democracy of North Carolina For Unity—Warning.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 7.—Attorney General T. W. Bickett, seen in his office on his return from Mecklenburg and Union counties where he had been spending several days, said of the gubernatorial situation that he is deeply gratified at the warm and generou support he is receiving in every section of the State. He added that he would like to give out the following signed interview:

"I deplore the persistent efforts made by sundry individuals to perpetuate factional lines in the Democratic party. On account of the European war conditions have arisen which the Republican organization is seeking to convert into politica lcapital. It is plotting to inject into the minds of the people the insidious suggestion that the Democratic party is in some vague way responsible for the conditions brought on by the most collossal war in the world's history. In the fact of this movement it behooves all good men who love justice and who are at all capable of appreciating that man, sent straight from God to guide this nation in a perilous hour, to bury all personal differences and rally to the colors.

"I want to say with all the emphasis that I can command that as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor I am not running as the champion or exponent of any wing, faction or division of the Democratic party, but my hope and reliance is to wipe out all factional lines, weld together every discordant element in the party, and present a united front to the common foe. That foe is even now girding himself for the coming conflict. As surely as the sun rises unity leads straight to virtory; as surely as the sun sets, division spells disaster. In this crucial hour I call on every Democrat in North Carolina to harken to the immortal words of the immortal Aycock.

"'The Doones' are in the valley! I pray you, gentlemen, train your guns a little lower.'"

Kinston, N. C., June 7.—E. B. Lewis, of this city, a member of the National camp of the Woodmen of the World and State manager for North Carolina, will head the North Carolina delegation to the biennial meeting of the sovereign camp to be held in St. Paul, Minn., on July 13. To accompany him have been delegated T. A. Windley, of Trenton; Gen. B. S. Royster, of Oxford; S. O. Briant, of Raleigh, and Geo. C. Jackson, of Wilmington.

I MUST Stop Using Drugs.

How easy it is to say this—and yet how almost impossible it is to actually stop. The drug habit starts harmlessly enough—to bring sleep, or to deaden pain, or to give contentment and mental peace. But it fastens itself insidiously upon its victim—and then life is a losing fight against heavy odds. The inevitable result is mental, moral and physical breakdown. And attempts to stop bring only greater suffering.

But at Greensboro, N. C., thousands have been taken from the clutches of the drug addiction and restored to full health and vigor by the help of the Keeley Institute. Treating the drug habit as a disease, it is the only known medical treatment for the relief of the heroin, morphine, cocaine, opium or other drug diseases.

And not only is the treatment productive of wonderful cures, but there is a personality about the place that aids in restoring lost ideals and ambitions—an uplift that makes the patients just as they were before the addiction fastened itself upon them.

Read the letter of this grateful woman:

"More than two years ago I was taking laudanum and was nothing but a wreck. I had got to the place where I did not care to live and I thought to cure me would entail suffering worse than death. But I stayed four weeks at the Institute and my cure was complete—and I really enjoyed being there." MRS. A. V. MARSTON. Pamplin, Va. April 12, 1915.

It is worth your while to learn further about Greensboro, and start yourself—or someone dear to you—on the road to future happiness. Write us now—frankly and in confidence.

WANT TO CO-OPERATE IN SECURING SITES

Rotary Club Members Ask Assistance of County.

New Hanover Commissioners Held Lengthy Session Yesterday—Many Matters Considered—Carolina Beach Road.

With a view to encouraging manufacturers to come to Wilmington, the Board of County Commissioners yesterday afternoon was requested by Mr. Roger Moore, who appeared before the board in behalf of the Rotary Club, to have the property on Smith's creek, north of the city surveyed and laid off in lots for the purpose of selling them at a reasonable price for manufacturing sites. The county owns between 75 and 100 acres with attractive water frontage on the creek and the Commissioners went on record over a year ago as being opposed to selling it to private individuals or corporations except for manufacturing purposes.

Mr. Moore pointed out, however, that what was desired by the Rotary Club was to have something tangible to offer to manufacturers. He thought that the land should be surveyed and laid off in lots with a definite price placed upon each, so that prospective investors could be shown just what they could purchase.

He expressed it as his opinion that many manufacturers were kept from locating in Wilmington because of the exorbitant prices charged for sites and thought that if the county would cooperate in the matter this difficulty could be largely obviated. He incidentally mentioned that the securing of better navigation facilities for Smith's creek on which are already located several manufacturing plants should be brought to the attention of Congressman Godwin and Senator Simmons.

With a view to carrying out the suggestion of the Rotary Club, a committee composed of Commissioners Willard, Moore and Yopp was appointed by Chairman McGirt to take up the matter. The motion adopted by the board provided that the prices fixed upon for lots should not hold good for longer than six months.

A communication was read from Mr. C. R. Humphreys, who has the contract for the construction of a hard road to Carolina Beach boulevard, requesting that he be allowed to use clay for a foundation in building a three-mile stretch just ahead of the point upon which his forces are now working. His contract with the county and the beach corporation specifies that the road bed is to be ten feet wide and of a uniform thickness of eight inches before being rolled. He suggested that a clay foundation of six inches depth be used in the deep sand and four inches in the shallow places. As a part compensation for this added expense in building this part of the road he asked that the county accept seven-tenths of a mile of road near Mr. Tom Burnett's place on the Federal Point road after it is dragged. He said that this is already a good road and needs little improvement.

The great difficulty in building the road, he pointed out, over the deep sand is that it does not stand up, especially when the heavy truck and trailers are run over it. He said that it was as much to his advantage to have a good road as it was to the county for without it Mr. W. D. MacMillan, who has the contract for hauling the gravel, can only run the truck on low gear, this causing an increased expense.

There was a long discussion as to whether or not the truck now in use which has block tires does more damage to a road than a truck with round tires. Mr. MacMillan maintained that a block tire does no more harm than a truck with round tires, but Chairman McGirt differed with him.

Commissioner Willard was of the opinion that the matter brought up by Mr. Humphreys was one that could not be decided off-hand and that it would require the services of an expert to pass upon it. He moved that the matter be referred to the original committee composed of Chairman McGirt and Commissioners Yopp and Moore for their consideration. His motion was adopted.

Mr. Humphreys submitted samples of the clay he proposed to use which he said was different from some of the clay which has been used in road building, being more durable. He expressed his willingness to build a short stretch of road to show the Commissioners its advantages. He said that on account of the damage from the truck and trailers $450 had been expended in repairing damages to the first mile of road built.

The Commissioners, however, did not like the idea of allowing a part of the road to be dragged and expressed it as their opinion that the road should be uniform all the way. They also thought that some measures should be taken to protect the road south of Sunset Park which has already been built and this matter will be taken up at once.

Headed by Mr. J. Laurence Sprunt, a committee of a dozen or more Y. M. C. A. boosters appeared before the board to request that they be allowed the use of a space 70 by 100 feet in size on the Court House square between the Court House and the jail and just south of these buildings to be used for two tennis courts. The removal of a brick wall and several trees, however, are difficulties in the way that the Commissioners thought ought to be considered and the matter was referred to Commissioners Moore and Yopp.

Upon motion of Commissioner Willard the board adopted a resolution providing that enough money be deducted from future appropriation to the James Walker Memorial Hospital to equalize the amounts paid by the city and county since February, when the new law governing the amounts to be paid by each went into effect, unless the city is willing to increase its payments since that date.

Kenan & Stacy, county attorneys, ruled that the county could not pay more than half of the total amount appropriated by the city and county after the new law became effective. The county during the three months paid approximately $1,000 more than the city. The clerk was ordered to send a copy of the resolution to the Board of Managers of the hospital.

Mr. L. D. Latta, of Winter Park, appeared before the board in behalf of the farmers of that section to request that a new public road be opened up from that place to Pearsall's siding in East Wilmington, the distance being about a mile. He said that it would result in a great shortening of the distance that truckers would have to travel in order to load their produce on

MUCH INTEREST IN VOYAGE

President T. E. Cooper, of State Bankers' Association, Arranges to Carry Extra Passengers.

Mr. T. E. Cooper, president of the North Carolina Bankers' Association, said yesterday that arrangements have been made to provide accommodations for 50 persons on board the Clyde Line steamer Comanche when the bankers take their trip to New York at the close of the State Convention, which convenes at the Seashore Hotel at Wrightsville Beach on June 17th and continues in session through the 19th.

The steamer will leave Wilmington for New York on Saturday afternoon, June 19th. Special arrangements have been made by the Clyde Line to have this handsome boat call at Wilmington on its return trip from Jacksonville to New York. The fare for the trip will be $12, which will include all expenses for berth, state room, meals, passenger fare and everything except refreshments.

President Cooper sent out letters last week to the North Carolina bankers and also to many of the bankers in upper South Carolina requesting those desiring to take the trip to let him know immediately. He has already received many favorable answers. The steamer has facilities for carrying 200 passengers and it is expected that there will be fully this many or more from Wilmington.

Those desiring to accompany the bankers on this trip should notify either President Cooper, or Mr. C. J. Becker, the local Clyde Line agent, in order that reservations may be made for them before it is too late.

The trip promises to be a most pleasant one and is being looked forward to with much interest by the bankers and their friends.

BEGIN WORK ON REPAIRS FOR WOOLWORTH BUILDING.

Mr. C. D. Hildebrand in Charge of Improvements to be Made.

Work was begun yesterday in making extensive repairs to the store building on North Front street formerly occupied by the Sterchi-Brancroft Furniture Company and the French Millinery Parlors, preparatory to the opening of the Woolworth five and ten cent store in the early fall. The partition will be removed, new show windows installed, metal ceiling placed and a new heating system put in. The lighting system will also be changed. The total cost of the improvement will be approximately $3,000.

Mr. C. D. Hildebrand, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., construction superintendent for the Woolworth stores, has charge of the remodeling of the store. He said yesterday that he would have it ready for occupancy in eight weeks.

It is of interest to know that at the present time there are 760 Woolworth stores in the United States. The chain of stores has its headquarters in New York. The Woolworth building in the metropolis has the distinction of being the highest structure in New York and is familiar to the hundreds of visitors who go to that city from Wilmington and vicinity every year.

OPEN BIDS FOR TEARING DOWN OLD BUILDINGS.

Four Proposals Received for Clearing Custom House Site.

Col. Walker Taylor, collector of customs, yesterday opened the bids for removing the brick and frame buildings from the government property on Water street on which will be located the new custom house. There were four proposals received by Colonel Taylor. The bids with recommendations have been forwarded to Washington and the contract will be awarded in a few days.

The Wilmington Iron Works and the Clark-Lynch Lumber Company, bidding with Mr. Sol. Sternberger, each submitted a proposal to clear the site for $4,900. Wm. B. Campbell bid $5,700 and J. M. Woolard and F. J. Gooding submitted a bid for $11,238. The work must be completed by September 1st.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS.

City Commission Held Meeting Last Night—Large List.

Eighteen applicants for positions in the police department and five for the fire department were examined by the City Civil Service Commission last night at the city hall.

Members of the commission present were Mr. D. K. LeGwin, the chairman, and Mr. S. A. Matthews, the new member, who succeeds Mr. S. J. Ellis, who did not stand for re-election. Dr. J. H. Bornemann, the other member, was out of the city last night.

The papers will be examined and the names of those who passed the examinations will be transmitted to the city clerk and treasurer as a list of eligibles, from which the Councilman in charge of the department of public safety will make appointments as vacancies or resignations may occur.

DIRECTORIES OF CITIES

New Copies Received by Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has received for its files copies of the new city directories of the following cities: Richmond, Petersburg, Alexandria, Newport News and Danville, Va.; Tampa, Fla., Dayton, Ohio; Evansville, Ind.; Jacksonville, Fla., and Indianapolis, Ind.

These directories are on file at the quarters of the chamber in the Murchison building and the members and general public are invited to make free use of them at any time.

WILL BUILD FISHING PIER.

Local Men Have Made Application for Charter.

Messrs. A. W. Pate, W. E. Yopp, J. C. Herring and J. J. Loughlin have made application for a charter for the Carolina Beach Fishing Pier, Inc., and as soon as it is granted they plan to organize a company to build and operate a fishing pier at Carolina Beach. The pier is to be located over one of the old wrecks at the beach, where the fishing has always been exceptionally good, and the anglers of this section will be much interested in the consummation of the plans now being made.

NEW CITY DIRECTORY IS OUT

Handsome Volume for 1915-1916 is an Improvement Over Former Wilmington Directories.

The new city directory of Wilmington for the years of 1915-1916, published by the Hill Directory Company, Inc., of Wilmington and Richmond, Va., and copies are now being distributed to subscribers, as well as placed on sale at C. W. Yates & Co., 117 Market street. The directory this year is an improvement of the directories of former years, in that it contains in addition to its other features a street guide of householders.

The directory is substantially and handsomely gotten up, on a good quality of paper and with a heavy but attractive binding. It is well filled with advertisements of the business firms, merchants, corporations, etc., of Wilmington.

The directory contains a preface furnished by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, which reviews in brief the many advantages of this city and section gives population figures, statistics as to the growth of exports and imports, the increase in postoffice receipts and other items of interest to local people, as well a sto the stranger.

There is a complete general directory of city and its residents; a business directory and the street guide, giving the residents along each street, which feature is new this year, and one that will add much to the value of the book. There is also much other useful information classed under the head of miscellaneous, in which are given facts relative to the city government, county government, State government, the United States government, fraternal orders, churches, social organizations, charitable organizations, etc.

WELL KNOWN BUSINESS MAN DIED YESTERDAY.

Mr. James C. Morrison Passed Away After Long Illness.

Many friends will be profoundly grieved to learn of the death of Mr. James C. Morrison, a well known business man of this city, who died at his home, No. 20 North Fifth street, yesterday afternoon at 12:15 o'clock after a long illness. He was a native of Southport and was 52 years old. The funeral will be conducted from the residence this afternoon at 5 o'clock by Rev. W. E. Cox, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, of which the deceased had been a member for many years.

Mr. Morrison is survived by two sisters, Mrs. S. P. Adams and Miss Nora Morrison, both of whom will have the tenderest sympathy of a host of friends.

After completing his education at Sewanee University Mr. Morrison came to Wilmington, where he was long engaged in the brokerage business on the wharf. He was first a member of the firm of John R. Turrentine & Co., but later engaged in business for himself. He was a business man of unquestioned integrity and noted for his loyalty to his friends.

He was greatly interested in military affairs and was considered one of the best informed men in the State on naval affairs. He was at one time captain of the Wilmington Light Infantry and remained a member of the Reserve Corps until his death. He also served as captain of the old Naval Reserves.

One of his pastimes was the construction of miniature battleships, in which he was quite an expert. He had been in declining health for a number of years.

MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS AWARDED LAST EVENING

Interesting Graduation Exercises at St. Mary's School.

A large audience witnessed the entertainment and graduation exercises of St. Mary's school, held at the school at Fifth and Ann streets, last evening, when diplomas were awarded to the four members of the graduating class and an attractive and entertaining programme was carried out.

The members of the graduating class this year were Misses Catherine Bergen, Anna L. Quinlivan, Marguerite Sheehan and Elizabeth Sweeney. Miss Catherine Bergen was the valedictorian and the salutory was delivered by Miss Elizabeth Sweeney. Miss Catherine Bremer received the business diploma; the Knights of Columbus medal was awarded to Miss Annie Torpy and Miss Marguerite Sheehan was awarded a $5 gold piece for proficiency in church doctrine.

Among the interesting features on the programme were a pantomime, "Rock of Ages," with Miss Banks as soloist; a dance, the polka, by Misses H. Rodgers and M. Bunker; a song, "When I Wore a Tulip and You Wore a Big Red Rose," by the Messrs. Croom, and a concert recitation, "Erin's Flag," by the class of 1915.

Rev. Father C. Dennen also delivered a most interesting and instructive address. Mrs. J. Niggel presided at the piano, and Prof. Russell's orchestra also furnished music.

Making Malarial Survey.

Dr. Chas. T. Nesbitt, county health officer, Surgeon General Gorgas, of the United States army, and Dr. Carter, a malarial expert in the public health service, are conducting a malarial survey in the vicinity of Blewitt's Falls, near Wadesboro, where complaint has been made that the health of the people is being endangered through the construction of river dams, causing water to stand in the low lands and furnishing breeding places for mosquitoes. Dr. Nesbitt will return to the city in a few days.

No Recorder's Court.

There were no cases yesterday before the Recorder, this being the first time in many moons when on Monday morning there were no prisoners at the police station. Recorder Empie called court to order as usual, but as there were no offenders he immediately called for an adjournment.

TO SECURE LIME FOR GRASS

Mr. J. P. Herring Recommends That County Secure Rock Crusher—Commissioners Will Investigate.

Mr. J. P. Herring, county farm demonstrator, in his monthly report to the Board of Commissioners yesterday afternoon recommended that a crusher be put in by the county at Rocky Run for the purpose of crushing lime to be sold to the farmers at cost. Commissioner M. S. Willard has had the same idea in mind for some time and several weeks ago wrote the State Agricultural Department with reference to securing some co-operation from the State in the matter.

Commissioner Willard said that he didn't get much encouragement from the department, but declared that he would be glad to continue his efforts to secure some means of providing lime for the farmers of the county. He was appointed a committee of one to take up the matter.

Auditor Orrell, who is also a farmer, pointed out that lime purchased in Virginia and shipped to Wilmington costs $3.40 a ton which makes it too costly for practical purposes. There is plenty of lime to be secured in this county provided it is crushed. Since lime is not a hard rock to crush it does not take an expensive machine to crush it.

Commissioner Willard pointed out as did Mr. Herring in his report that with lime and the soil the raising of grass for cattle and livestock in New Hanover county becomes a very feasible proposition. It is probable that some steps will be taken for providing lime at a merely nominal cost by early fall which will be plenty of time for grasses. Following is the report of Mr. Herring:

"I have not made a report to your Honorable Body since the first of March, 1915, because of my having been instructed by the district agent to make a duplicate of my weekly report to him which would be sent to the chairman of your body. This I considered a fuller report of my work than I had been making and therefore unnecessary for me to make a monthly report.

"During these three months I have been at work in helping to get into operation co-operative marketing through the Wilmington Co-Operative Truck Growers' Association. We have succeeded in the lettuce deal through the management of Mr. C. E. Haskett beyond our most sanguine expectations. Not only have the membership been helped but many of those who did not see the feasibility of our plan now say they were benefited by it. The problem of marketing is now the chief concern of the Department of Agriculture, both State and Nation. The idea of making two blades of grass grow where only one grew before and not getting more profits for the growing of the two does not appeal to the farmer. It has been demonstrated in many sections of our country and other countries that co-operation in marketing is the solution to this problem.

"With the idea of standardizing our products we held three demonstrations in grading and packing, two of which were very well attended. The other was a failure because of the fact that the farmers were too busy at that time to attend. The standardizing of lettuce is a difficult undertaking but when accomplished will fully justify the trouble.

"The idea of co-operation has not stopped with the farmers, but has extended to the 'United Farm Women.' We find at Wrightsboro a band of 'United Farm Women'—the membership is 21—buying home canners, cans and purchasing dress goods by the bolt and other things for the home, co-operatively. They have purchased and now have on hand 2,000 cans and will in a few days order another 1,000 cans. We feel that this large interest in canning the waste products is due to some extent to the work of the Girls' Canning Clubs, done in the county last year and also to the Corn Show held last fall. Requests are coming to me so often for help in canning. We regret very much that no provision was made to furnish this help. This work is worth while.

"We are now considering the question of getting more livestock on our farms. The importance of which needs no comment here. Investigation has shown that the demand for milk in our city is not yet supplied. We find that by neighborhoods co-operating in delivery routes that much money can be put into the hands of our farmers by their keeping more milk cows. I would recommend increasing the cows at the county farm. From the three cows there now you furnished milk and butter to 27 patients and in case of sickness to the prisoners and realized in cash profits $15 per month besides. Ten cows would mean a greater cash profit per month because the patients are supplied from these three.

"While speaking of the farm I wish to note the fact that I was sent by the district agent to Pender county some days ago and visited the Lyon Swamp drainage district and other sections where they grow fine corn, but nowhere have I seen as fine corn as is now growing on New Hanover county's farm. Mr. Rasberry has planted 35 or 40 acres in corn and now has planted nine acres in sweet potatoes and is planning to set as many more. His prospects now are fine.

"I wish to recommend to your honorable body, if you will allow me, the putting in of a crusher at Rocky Run and grinding the rock there and selling it to our farmers at the cost of production. For us to be successful in growing livestock we must grow the grasses and clovers that are grown in sections where livestock is grown successfully. These crops require lime and will grow here as well as anywhere when the soil conditions are met. This is demonstrated on the roadside of every mile of rock road you have in the county. You have timothy, red top, blue grass, red clover, white clover and Japan clover all calling to the farmer to lime the land across the ditch that it may have more room to spread and feed cows, to give milk to raise stronger and better boys and girls on his farm and stronger and better boys and girls in our city. On account of the freight we are not able to purchase this lime in sufficient quantities for these crops. In my humble opinion there is nothing you could do that would help the farmers more than providing this lime.

"Yours truly,
"J. P. HERRING,
"Farm Demonstrator."

BIRTHS AND DEATHS FOR MAY

Death Rate per Thousand Was 16.6, Against 22.1 for Same Month Last Year—Birth Rate.

The temporary resident death rate for Wilmington and New Hanover county for the month of May was 16.6 per thousand, as against a rate of 22.1 per thousand for the same month in 1914. There was a total of 52 deaths, of which seven were non-resident. The total number of births for the month was 49 and the temporary birth rate per thousand was 15.5.

Of the births 27 were white, 14 male and 13 female, while 22 were black, 5 male and 17 female.

There were 19 white deaths, 10 mail and nine female, while the total number of colored deaths was 33, there being 13 male and 23 female colored deaths. Of the deaths, 19 were of children under five years of age, 8 white and 11 black.

The temporary resident death rate per thousand for the white race for May was 10.8 and for the black race 23.6, or a total of 16.6.

The temporary birth rate for the white race for the month was 17.5 and for the colored, 13.0; a total of 15.5.

The figures are taken from the vital statistics record of the health department.

Counting the non-resident deaths, the grim reaper led the stork for the month, but subtracting the seven non-resident deaths the births exceed the deaths by four.

Rheumatism? Here Are Some Real Facts

How to Overcome the Torture Without Harmful Drugs.

A legion of people have used S. S. S. and have overcome the worst forms of rheumatism.

This disease of the blood is little understood because of its strange symptoms, scarcely two people having it exactly alike. And yet, no matter what its form or how painful and distressing, S. S. S. seems to have almost a divine influence in driving it out, releasing the nerves from pain and clearing the joints and muscles so they work without restraint. The best explanation for this happy result is the fact that in S. S. S. are certain ingredients which act as an antidote. They are nature's providence to men.

Just as the meats, fats, salts and sugars of our daily food provide us with nourishment, so does S. S. S. give to the blood the exact medicinal requirement to clear the stream, drive out impurities and reconstruct the body if destructive germs have gained a foothold. Go to any drug store today and get a bottle of S. S. S. It will do you good. But be sure to refuse any and all substitutes. And if yours is a stubborn case, write to the Medical Adviser, The Swift Specific Co., 109 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. This department is presided over by a physician proud of his name by virtue of his distinguished family and a foremost doctor on his own merits.

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH

Mrs. Geo. L. Morton, of Atlanta, arrived yesterday to spend the summer with Mrs. Clarence L. Mafftt.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Barrett, of Augusta, Ga., are occupying the Lord Cottage this summer. Mr. Barrett is a prominent cotton broker of Augusta, and his wife is a niece of Mr. W. J. Craig, of Wilmington. They are among the regular visitors at the beach each summer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Metts, of Columbia, S. C., who visit Wrightsville Beach each summer, are at the Seashore Hotel to spend a month or more.

Floyd Simmons, Esq., a prominent attorney of Charlotte, and Mrs. Simmons, are occupying a cottage on the Northern Extension this summer.

MUCH INTEREST IN RACES OF CAROLINA YACHT CLUB

The members of the Carolina Yacht Club are looking forward with much interest to the series of yacht races which will be conducted during the summer. The club house was opened on May 1st for the summer. The first event in the class A series for the Jones-Walters trophy will take place on Saturday afternoon, June 26th.

An open race was held Saturday afternoon beginning at 3:30 o'clock in which four yachts were entered. There was a stiff breeze which made a very pretty race. The contestants finished in the following order:

Puzzle, Capt. E. A. Metts; Alice, Capt. W. M. Peck; It, Capt. Louis MacMillan; Willet, Capt. J. Stevenson Brown.

Senator W. B. Cooper and family yesterday moved to their cottage on Wrightsville Sound.

Beginning today the Seaboard Air Line will operate a through steel Pullman between Wilmington to Atlanta for the accommodation of visitors to the beach and the other resorts in this vicinity. Later it is expected that a through Pullman will be operated biweekly or tri-weekly between Wilmington and Birmingham.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Seaboard Air Line will, beginning June 11th, operate a special Sunday train from Hamlet to Wilmington during the remainder of the summer. The train will arrive in Wilmington at 10 A. M. and will return late in the afternoon.

WEDDED ON RIVER BRIDGE AS SUN WAS SETTING

Duplin Couple Plight Their Troth in Truly Romantic Style.

In truly romantic style, Miss Hettie Cottle, daughter of Mr. Robert Cottle, and Mr. D. L. Parker, both young people being from Chinquapin in Duplin county, plighted their troth on Brunswick river bridge yesterday as the sun was just setting amidst the trees in Brunswick county. Rev. A. J. Parker, pastor of Fifth Street Methodist church, pronounced the vows that made them man and wife, in the presence of several of their friends.

The young people came to Wilmington yesterday after securing their license to marry at Southport. After securing a minister, the next problem was to get back to Brunswick county. An automobile was pressed into service and the journey started. It was high tide, and the mile of road between the Cape Fear and Brunswick rivers was flooded with water. However, the machine plowed its way through the mud and water safely, and at length the bridge was reached. After passing over far enough to be sure to be on the Brunswick side, the wedding ceremony was performed.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker spent last night in the city, and will return to their home at Chinquapin today.

Doctors Tell How to Shed Bad Complexion

We cannot restore degenerated facial tissue any more than we can restore a lost limb. It is useless to attempt to convert a wornout complexion into a new one. The rational procedure is to remove the complexion instead—remove the devitalized cuticle. Not by surgical means, however, as the underlying cutis is too thin, too tender, to withstand immediate exposure. Applying ordinary mercolized wax will gradually absorb the offending cuticle. By degrees, a new, youthful skin appears; soft and delicately tinted as a rose petal.

No lady need hesitate to try this. Procure an ounce of mercolized wax of the druggist. Spread on a thin layer before retiring, removing this in the morning with soap and water. In from one to two weeks the complexion is completely transformed.

An approved treatment for wrinkles is provided by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings prompt and remarkable results.—Dr. R. Mackenzie, in Popular Medicine.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Mr. C. R. Anderson, of Ocean View, Va., was in the city yesterday on business.

—Mr. N. F. Highsmith, of Harrell's Store, is the guest of his son, Mr. S. F. Highsmith.

—Mr. Vance Bounds, who was called to Bennettsville, on account of the illness of his sister, has returned home.

—Messrs. James Duffy, Robert Ruark, William C. Glover and John R. Swann returned home yesterday after spending the week-end in Fayetteville.

—Mr. Archie Glover, of Fayetteville, arrived in the city last night to join Mr. William Bunting and a party of party of friends on a ten days' camping trip on Mr. H. F. Wilder's farm on Masonboro Sound.

—Among those who will leave for Salisbury today to attend the annual convention of the Grand Lodge of North Carolina Pythians are Supreme Master of Exchequer Thos. D. Meares, Jos. W. Little, Esq., and Messrs. John R. Hanby, J. W. Smith, W. P. McGlaughon and G. Herbert Smith, of Croniy.

—Mr. E. W. Godwin, Jr., of Point Caswell, was here yesterday. He says the freshet in Black river the past several days has been one of the worst since 1898. Mr. Godwin's mill was several feet under water and log rafts and lighters were saved with difficulty. However, it was expected that the water would begin to recede last night.

The funeral of Mrs. C. S. Denny, who died at her home, No. 3 Postoffice avenue, on Sunday night, will be conducted from the residence this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

WERNER HORN, GERMAN ARMY OFFICER, PRESENTS DEMURRER

Is Charged With Carrying Explosives From New York to Vanceboro.

Boston, Mass., June 7.—Werner Horn, the German army officer who was arrested in connection with the attempt to blow up the International Bridge between Canada and Vanceboro, Maine, on February 2, last, today presented a demurrer to the indictment charging him with carrying explosives from New York to Vanceboro in violation of the Federal laws.

Horn also filed a plea against the jurisdiction of the court, based on the contention that he committed an act of war and consequently was beyond the jurisdiction of the United States courts.

He asked leave also to amend his petition for a writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that he did not state in the original petitio nthat he was domiciled of residence in Germany.

Judge Morton said he would head the motions Wednesday.

ELECTIONS IN GREENVILLE

School Bond Issue Carried; Albion Dunn Elected Mayor.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Greenville, N. C., June 7.—Greenville voted today a $30,000 bond issue for school purposes. Registration was light, but the vote was overwhelming for bonds, the vote at noon for bonds being more than the majority needed. Albion Dunn, for mayor, and the entire alderman ticket was elected without opposition, all Democrats.

Norfolk, Va., June 7.—The captain of the Italian steamer Doris reported today he had passed an American schooner displaying signal letters K. S. B. D., at 10 a. m., June 5, forty miles southeast of Cape Henry. The vessel was drifting with her steering gear out of order and asked to be reported at the custom house, but did not request assistance. The maritime register showed the signals to be those of the schooner Emma S. Lord, of Bangor, Maine.

New York, June 7.—At the annual election today of officers of the New York Cotton Exchange, Henry H. Royce, was chosen president. A. B. Gwathney was elected vice president and James F. Maury was re-elected treasurer.

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess", says Mrs. Eula Mae Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good.

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight."

If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the womanly constitution, and helps build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

Cardui has helped others, and will help you, too. Get a bottle today. You won't regret it. Your druggist sells it.

Safety+Quickness

"Safety First" must ever be the watchword in firearms. But safety must not be secured at the expense of quick action. The Colt Automatic Pistol combines the most dependable kind of safety—automatic safety—with instant firing.

The Colt can't be discharged accidentally, because the trigger must be pulled and the safety in the grip must be pressed in at the same instant and this can't be done except it is done purposely. So much for safety.

As for quickness, the Colt always gets there first, for in an emergency you don't have to bother with or think about the grip safety—it takes care of itself and you.

SCOTCH MEETS IRISH AND ROCKY MT. DEFEATS PORTSMOUT

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 7.—The Scotch met the Irish this evening on the local lot and the Irish triumphed and Mickey O'Brien claims the honor of a 4 to 2 victory over McKeithan, of the Scotch, who lost for the Portsmouth Truckers in a well played game. The feature of the contest came with Gray's clout to right that dropped over the scoreboard for a homer, and which gave the Tar Heels the fight that finally wound up in their victory. Every point was hotly contested and plays that taxed the ingenuity of Umpire McGowan came often, though the arbiter came through in good style.

West Point, June 7.—Cadet Robert R. Neyland, Jr., a member of the class of '16, who has pitched phenomenal ball for the army baseball team for the past two seasons, was today elected captain of the army nine for next season. Until beaten by Fordham a few weks ago Neyland's records of wins covering two years was 20 straight. During the past season he won eleven out of twelve games.

Trinity College, Durham, N. C., June 7.—The awarding of "T's" to the members of the varsity team of the past year and the election of team managers, was the business of the last meeting for the present year of the Trinity Athletic Council. The council, which is composed of representatives from each class, from the faculty, and from the alumni, has final authority in all athletic affairs at Trinity.

Richmond, Va., June 7.—In the challenge round of the Old Dominion Tennis Tournament on the courts of the Country club of Virginia Theodore R. Pell, of New York, successfully defended his title against Carlton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, winning 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 and coming into permanent possession of the Hermitage cup on which he already held two legs.

cars in East Wilmington. The matter was referred to the permanent road committee.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the borrowing of $5,000 for four months, the money to be used in completing the new work house.

Commissioner Willard moved that the sheriff be requested to make returns of all the costs remaining unpaid in cases for the last ten months.

The board accepted the bond of Special Officer H. Mack Godwin for $1,000 and of Auditor Orrell for $5,000, each bond being for the faithful performance of services to the county.

Commissioners Moore, Yopp and McGirt were appointed a committee to revise the jury list. There were numerous routine matters that received consideration.

County Officer H. Mack Godwin submitted his report for the month, showing that fees had been collected in the different courts in cases in which he made arrests amounting to $54.80 and the costs in cases not yet disposed of amounting to $22.20. The fines, costs and forfeiture of bonds were $437.85, making a total of $514.85.

The report of Mr. P. H. Rasberry, superintendent of the county home, showed that there are now 28 patients and 37 prisoners. The outlook for the crops are very encouraging. He called attention to two white boys, William Kermon and James Rising, who have been sent to the farm for long terms, and suggested that arrangements be made to send them to some reformatory. Maj. W. N. Harriss, clerk of the Superior Court, has the matter under consideration.

Mr. R. A. Burnett, county road superintendent, reported that there are now 87 prisoners on the county roads, 29 having been received and 20 released during the month of May. Camp No. 2 is stationed along the Federal Point road about 15 miles from the city. Camp No. 3 has been moved to Federal Point. Camp No. 4 was engaged during the month in doing extra work on the Masonboro and Castle Haynes roads. Gang No. 5 was engaged in taking the wooden bridge from Mill's creek and in patching the Federal Point road.

Washington, June 7.—The old sloop of war Portsmouth, which took possession of San Francisco bay for the United States in 1846, destroyed the Chinese fortifications at Canton in 1856 and later fought with Admiral Farragut, was sold today for $3,662 to John H. Gregory, of Perthamboy, N. J.

Macon, Ga., June 7.—Misses Alice Wrigley and Mary Pearson, prominent young women, of this city, were killed today when an automobile driven by Miss Pearson was struck by a Central of Georgia railroad passenger train at a grade crossing ten miles west of here.

THEATRICAL

Today's bill at the Bijou is featured by two great multiple-reel productions, which makes it a toss-up as to which should head the list. Pauline Bush and William Clifford present a great two-reel Universal drama, "When Love is Love," an unusual story of life in a department store. It is a story full of thrilling and unexpected turns, telling of a girl's love, sacrifice and final triumph, and the winning of the man she loved. It is a pretty romance, and a thrilling drama, combined to make one of the most entertaining offerings you have seen in quite a while.

United offers one of its very strongest dramatic productions, "That Little Band of Gold," a two-reel feature with George and Dolly Larkin playing the leading parts. All critics have pronounced this production one of United's best, and it should, therefore, be a very attractive production.

Eddie Lyons, Victoria Forde and Lee Moran come in one of their great Nestor screams, "They Were Heroes," full of the usual Nestor laughs.

"Diamonds of Fate" is a single reel drama of extreme interest, with pretty Doris Pawn and handsome Sidney Ayres playing the leading roles.

Today at the Grand.

A veritable living, breathing spirit of the Orient, an intensely dramatic plot and three reels of perfect acting provide the piece-de-resistance at the Grand theatre today "The Breath of Araby." Helen Gardner is featured in this great production and gives an excellent exhibition of her histrionic ability. The story concerns a marvelous drop of perfume—the only one in the world—which embodies the most potent of love charms and this drop falls into the hands of an unscrupulous woman. The final climax is sensational in the extreme as with the prize she sought within her grasp she is literally stricken down by the hand of death. It is certainly a remarkable picture in every way.

The Keystone "Settled at the Seashore" is the comedy event on the bill and assures you of a good laugh after the touch of pathos in the preceding picture.

Closing the bill is Mignon Anderson and Arthur Ashley in the Thanhouser special "The Magnet of Destruction" and furnishes a good finale to this splendid programme as the final sene is intensely dramatic and the fight in the little car between Mignon and Lyell is a splendid presentation of a tense situation.

At the Victoria Today.

The Victoria today is presenting its usual wonderful Tuesday programme. A mutual master picture "Captain Macklin" and the third episode of the Who Pays? series. "When Justice Sleeps."

The Capt. Macklin picture is from the pen of Richard Harding Davis and that is why it makes such a crackling master picture. It is just facts that happen very, very fast. Every inch of the film is crowded with action and intrigue and action.

A fine looking fellow—fresh from West Point—two lovely girls (one too lovely) uniforms, Gatlings, blazing piazas, the swing and glitter of romance and war. It will make your blood tingle to see it.

The third of the Who Pays? series with Ruth Roland and Henry King, is especially good and briefly the story is that of a young man who stained his honor for his love—and of a woman who didn't care. Also of a bad man who was better than the most of us and what it brought him. All neatly strung together with a rope of pearls and bound with a rope of hemp. "If justice has scales on her eyes, can she be trusted to see those in her hands?"

Philadelphia, June 7.—Boston, New York, California and Norway carried off honors here today in the opening rounds of the annual tournament for the women's lawn tennis championship of the United States.

PRIZES FOR LOCAL ANGLERS

Partial List of Awards to be Made to Winners in New Hanover Club's Fishing Contests.

The Contest Committee of the New Hanover Fishing Club has announced a partial list of the prizes to be awarded the winners in the several events and classes constituting the club's fishing contest for the 1915 season, which ends October 31st.

For the largest channel bass caught each month during the following months, between Masonboro and Mason's Inlets, prizes are offered as follows:

June—200 yards best line, donated by Cape Fear Hardware Company.

July—200 yards best line, donated by L. L. Hanby Hardware Co.

August—200 yards best line, donated by N. Jacobi Hardware Co.

September—200 yards best line, donated by Wm. E. Springer Hardware Company.

October—200 yards best line, donated by Wilmington Hardware Co.

In each instance the winner will be allowed to pick from the stock of the dealer the size and brand of line he prefers.

For the largest fish of each of the following species, caught by a member of the club anywhere on the North Carolina coast up to October 31st, the club offers prizes as follows:

Largest blue fish—200 yards original cuttyhunk line.

Largest trout—200 yards original cuttyhunk line.

Largest Virginia mullet—200 yards original cuttyhunk line.

For the largest channel bass caught by a member on the North Carolina coast during the 1915 season, ending October 31st, prizes are offered as follows:

First prize—Miesselbach surf casting reel, value $18.

Second prize—Order for goods to value of $10 on any dealer donating prizes for club's fishing or casting contests.

Third prize—Order for goods to value of $5 as above.

In the light tackle class, open to fish caught by members anywhere on the North Carolina coast and ending October 31st, for the channel bass whose weight bears highest ratio to test strength of line on which he was caught, prizes will be awarded as follows:

First prize—Order for goods to value of $10 on any dealer donating prizes for club's fishing or casting contests.

Second prize—Order for goods to value of $5 as above.

In addition to the above prizes, several others will be announced later.

Thus far President Theo. G. Empie is leading for the season prize for the largest channel bass, with an entry of 41 pounds and 10 ounces.

Dr. J. I. Campbell is leading in the light tackle class with a 36-pound fish caught on a line testing 30 pounds, giving him a ratio of 120 per cent.

Thus far there have been no entries in the classes for trout and blue fish. Mr. R. R. Bridgers is leading in the Virginia mullet class with a fish weighing two pounds, two ounces.

There have been no entries for the June prize as yet, though several members of the club have landed fish this month weighing over 20 pounds.

OSBORN BREAKS UP BIG DISTILLERY IN ARKANSAS

One Man Captured and Another a Fugitive—Known in North Carolina.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., June 7.—As a result of an investigation started by Commissioner Osborn several months ago, John L. Casper is in an Arkansas jail and Guy Hartman, his associate, is a fugitive from justice, having defaulted a $20,000 bail. Hartman and Caspre were arrested in Arkansas for running a distillery in violation of the law.

Both Hartman and Casper are known in North Carolina. Casper operated a liquor distributing house at Winston-Salem for a number of years and it is claimed that Hartman was his associate at that time.

Casper and Hartman notified the government that their distillery in Arkansas would be closed down for a period of several months. Commissioner Osborn therefore withdrew his storekeepers and gaugers. Later, however, he discovered that the distillery was running at top speed. He seized the wet goods amounting to some 500 barrels of perfectly good liquor, minus the government stamp. He also took charge of the mail order house operated by the two men at Kansas City, Mo.

As a result of the alertness of Mr. Osborn, the government has a little over $200,000 more than it anticipated it would have at this time.

Clarence Poe made a flying visit here today. He conferred with Secretary Daniels and then left for a Northern city. P. R. A.

Berlin, June 7, (via London, June 8.)—Reports from Copenhagen that the sounds of a naval engagement were heard in the Baltic Saturday were connected at the German admiralty with the reconnaissance of a German squadron in the Eastern Baltic, in the course of which, as already reported, the Russian mine layer Amur was sunk. All the German ships have returned safely.

CHARACTER—Personality. When you meet a man you instinctively catalog him—decide for yourself just what kind of a man he is and whether or not you're going to like him.

If he's wishy-washy, or overbearing, or bitter, or loud, or effeminate, or dull, or uninteresting, you're through, right there.

It is character that decides you.

Beverages have character.

Some can't outlast a single meeting.

Others are wishy-washy, effeminate and uninteresting. You forget them—quickly.

Others are overbearing—too decided in flavor or effect. You avoid them.

COCA-COLA has the character, the personality of a fine, wholesome, manly man. It meets the palates of men and women on this common ground.

It is pleasing without being effeminate.

It is vigorous without overdoing it.

It bears repetition without losing the freshness of appeal that first charmed you.

You—be you man or woman—meet in this beverage those qualities that are admirably manly in a man.

Instantly you will decide that you like it for its character—its personality. Time will prove the soundness of your judgment.

For 29 years COCA-COLA has been put to the test. Daily for 29 years it has passed the lips of the American people—has borne the test of repetition without losing its zest.

For 29 years it has proved its wholesomeness—its vigorousness—its deliciousness—its character.

You can prove to yourself in one glassful what 29 years have built into its reputation.

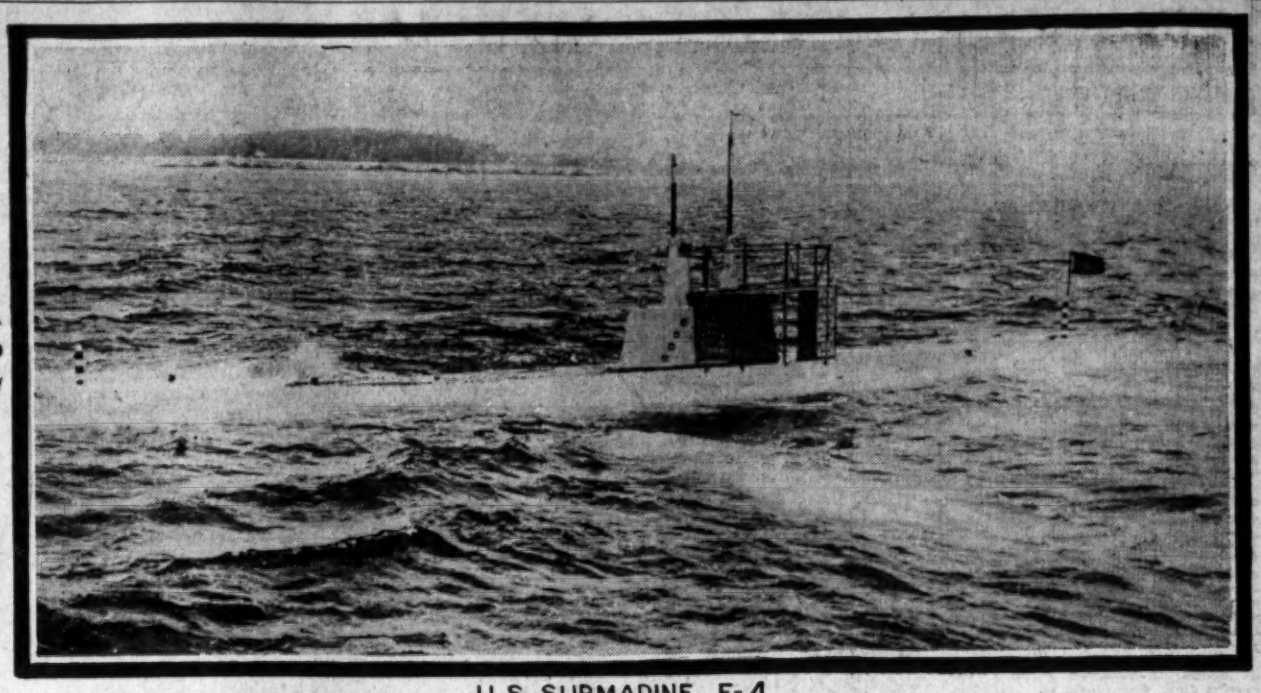
TALE OF TRAGEDY ON THE SUBMARINE F-4



U.S. SUBMARINE F-4

How 21 Men Of Uncle Sam's Under-Sea Navy Met Death In Honolulu Harbor—Sunken Craft Had Every Known Safety Device And Distress Signal But No S. O. S. Reached the Surface After Her Fatal Plunge

Evidences of the heroism with which the 21 members of the crew of the United States submarine F4 must have gone to their death when the boat plunged to the bottom of the sea in the harbor of Honolulu recently are accumulating in dispatches from the scene, quoting divers at work in an attempt to rescue the sunken vessel.

That every man remained a hero to the last is indicated by the report of Diver Agraz who descended far enough to peer into one of the portholes.

The dim light to the men dying of suffocation must have reminded them of the surface above where the sun was shining, and of that space three hundred feet above where there was fresh air, the lack of which they were slowly dying from.

With the exception of this one glimpse into the interior of the F4 by this daring diver, the manner in which the entire crew met its death will never be known in detail.

How those brave men went to their death can only be surmised from their positions in the cramped interior of the submarine. All went to their deaths as heroes though there might have been the bark of an automatic pistol as some man, crazed by lac.. of air, his lungs paining and his blood almost bursting from his ear drums, took the shorter course to inevitable death?

The F4 was one of the modern submarines of the United States navy and had been pronounced in perfect order a month before. Less than a month ago with other sister vessels of a submarine fleet she skimmed over the water of the harbor of Honolulu with her periscope and just a part of her deck showing. Her crew were in their neat uniforms and her captain stood on the slippery deck as they sailed away from the cruiser that acts as their protector when they are above surface and at rest.

The F4 and her sisters were well equipped with gasoline for the engines and tanks of oxygen, provisions and water for the crew. It was known by previous test that she could remain under water a week on the air supply she contained although her provision stock would not last that long.

GOING TO THEIR DOOM.

At a command from the captain the men descended down a ladder to the dark interior and took their positions in the cramped quarters, each man at his post. The portholes were closed, the periscope arranged satisfactorily, and the captain took his place on the little narrow bridge. At his signal the gasoline engines turned, the propeller turned, all valves were tested and the engineer reported to the bridge through the speaking tube: "All O. K."

The captain gave the signal to descend. The compartments on the sides were opened, the sea poured in and the vessel slowly settled. When she was so far below the surface that only a half foot of the periscope was above water, the captain gave a signal to stop descending and full speed ahead. The F4 sped out into the harbor one of the most graceful of crafts that Uncle Sam possessed.

Sailors watching her from the decks of her cruiser saw her suddenly plunge and disappear. This was a part of the maneuvers in the Honolulu Bay that afternoon. When the F4 did not reappear no alarm was felt. It was believed she might be trying to break a record. It was known that she could remain beneath the sea for at least three days without the least discomfiture to her crew.

When she did not appear the second day the crew of the cruiser became alarmed and sister submarines were sent to search for her.

STREET SCENE IN HONOLULU

Down into the depths they plunged but they gained no sight of her for two more days. At last a black hulk was seen lying on the bottom of the sea, three hundred feet from the surface. That ship gave no signs of life. As far as observers were concerned it might have been some old Spanish galleon, filled with gold and sent to the bottom many, many years before.

After several hours maneuvering a submarine came close enough that the captain through his periscope could observe the "F4" mark painted on her bow. The submarine quickly sped to the top and called for help. The captain of the cruiser wired the secretary of the navy for help and through the United States was flashed the information that a submarine of our navy had sunk and is crew of 21 brave souls was in peril.

WIRELESS FLASHES S. O. S.

The wireless was put in use and all of the vessels in that part of the world were sent to aid. Submarines are provided with rings on the side so that in an emergency such as the one the F4 experienced, other vessels might lower grapling hooks and raise her to the surface. The rescue work was started with that dispatch that any member of the United States army or navy uses in going to the assistance of one of their number in danger. It needed no playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" to urge these men to work fast in their efforts to raise the sunken submarine before her crew should die of suffocation. But their efforts were in vain. Several times it is believed the grappling hooks of cruisers on the surface caught in the deck rings of the sunken submarine but always an accident prevented the lifting of the vessel. Several times the prongs of the grappling hooks broke for the F4 was in a position at the bottom of the sea with a water pressure of approximately 18,000 pounds to the square inch and she could not be budged. More powerful craft with electric hoisting apparatus, heavy cable and grappling hooks were sent to the rescue. They succeeded in drawing her several hundred feet nearer the shore but not in raising her.

BOATS IN HONOLULU HARBOR

W. C. Parks, a civil engineer, started the construction of an immense diving bell. It is doubtful if any such bell, unless of the heaviest metal obtainable, can possible resist the water pressure at the depth at which the F4 rested on the bottom of the sea. It was feared that the bell would be crushed in by the pressure. Before the bell was occupied by its builder in his attempt to rescue the sunken ship, it was lowered to the bottom and then raised again to see what effect the water pressure had on it. At that depth even the fishes have to have great protection against the pressure. It is a known fact that when fish from such a depth are brought to the surface they burst because the great pressure to which they are accustomed and for the resistance of which their bodies were particularly provided, has been reduced. While the pressure of air on the surface is 16 pounds to the square inch, water pressure increases at the rate of 60 pounds per inch for each foot descended.

ALWAYS A MYSTERY.

Whether the engines of the F4 refused to work when she got to the bottom of the sea, whether her sides caved in under terrific pressure, or the exact nature of the incident that left her helpless at such a depth can only be surmised. When a week passed without any chance of lifting the vessel all hope for her crew was given up. In fact there had been grave doubts as to anyone being alive within for no sound had been heard from any of her apparatus for communicating with other vessels.

Perhaps her iron sides were crushed in on some shelving rock or corral on which she struck, the water rushed in and her crew was subjected to death by drowning, far more painless and merciful at the time than the slow, agonizing death by suffocation. However, it is feared that death by the latter means resulted. The F4 rested on the bottom of the sea. Her engineer struggled vainly with all power on, but the whirring propeller with all the force of the powerful gasoline engines, failed to move her.

Imagine that silent crew huddled about, each man so near the other that their shoulders touched, yet each man with the certain knowledge death faced him, pretending all was well and even trying to cheer up the man beside him. Thoughts of the mother or sister, or perhaps the sweetheart at home, must have passed through their minds as they sat huddled there in the dim light of the deep sea. Fishes flashing by the portholes must have been the most serious reminders of their fate for those fishes meant life—free life in the open—the principle that every man recognizes as his greatest boon. To the human under such circumstances the approach of death is by far more agonizing than to an animal in such circumstances, even than to the proverbial rat in the trap as it slowly drowns. To the beasts it is but a question of preservation of life—that instinct that makes it struggle until the last gasp. To the man and especially to a member of the United States navy, trained to bravery in emergencies and taught to expect possible death as his possible reward for the defence of his country in times of war, death—death by such a means—brings a great mental agony.

Above him, he knows, are other United States ships, with their happy care-free crews. Far away on shore or hundreds of Americans enjoying themselves in freedom.

THE END.

But there at the bottom of the sea were 21 stalwart sons of Uncle Sam doomed to a terrible death and destined to face death like the iron men the United States navy produces. If it had been on shipboard with national airs playing and a foe in sight these men would have rushed into a thousand dangers and gladly gone to death for the defense of their country. But here they were prisoners with not even a glimpse of the sun to liven them, to cheer them in their last hours. If they had been in battle line ashore or behind the big gun aboard ship they would have been contented for a whistling steel shell, a death scream and all would be over.

But now hours of agony faced them. For several days they had lived on scanty rations in the hopes they would not starve and that they might be rescued at any time. If they were still alive what joy must have possessed them when they heard the grappling hooks pass over the deck of their vessel. That sharp pronged hook was as if the whole United States were lifting out its hand to aid them in their rescue. What disappointment must have possessed them when the hook fell to the sea, having failed to catch their deck rings.

By this time the air in the oxygen containers must have been quite exhausted. Breathing would be difficult. The air laden with no nitrogen and carbonic acid must have pressed heavily on their lungs. Imagine them tearing open the bosom of their shirts as if to relieve the great pressure. Seated about with swollen lips, distended eyes and lungs paining as if a knife had been thrust through, these men must have sat about praying for the end. The captain can be imagined still at the bridge, standing as an officer must stand while on duty, yet with his head bent on his chest, his breath coming heavily and his mind a blank.

On him had rested the responsibility of the lives of those 21 men. While they sat helpless in their places beside the shafts of the propellers, he thought of all the ways ever employed by mechanics in such circumstances. The engineer backed him up in an effort to raise the vessel. But there came a time when orders ceased to come from the bridge and when the engineer was not prepared to heed them. The latter long since had sunk into a coma and was dreaming happily despite the heavy pressure of his lungs. Death was showing mercy. The tired captain, his head sunk on his breast, still stood half unconscious and also in a coma. His work was over when the hand of death took charge of the wheel of that vessel, but death was slow, although it had kindly given him the anesthesia of unconsciousness.

Thus the crew of F4 went to its death. Historians may add another chapter to the history of the United States when that hulk is raised and the bodies recovered.

COTTON SOME WHAT HIGHER

Market Somewhat Irregular, But Makes Generally Steady Showing and Some Advance.

New York, June 7.—While somewhat irregular, the cotton market made a generally steady showing today, with the close steady, at a net advance of 5 to 10 points.

Firm cables and report of unsettled weather in the South over Sunday doubtless accounted for an opening advance of 10 to 11 points, and active months sold 13 to 14 points net higher, right after the call on scattered covering and local bull support.

There was no general or aggressive demand, however, and enough realizing was encountered around 9.97 for October contracts to check the upward movement. Reactions of some 8 or 10 points followed, but the market turned steadier during the afternoon, with prices working back to nearl ythe previous high point. Trading was very quiet later, and the close was 4 or 5 points off from the best.

Private cables reported a small, steady market in Liverpool. There were reports from West Texas that the rains were beneficial, but complaints were received from Oklahoma that owing to recent rains a further reduction in acreage was probable, and the eastern belt forecast for unsettled weather with showers and lower temperatures was not considered favorable.

Cotton futures closed steady.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Day's Session in Market Featured by Quiet Strength.

New Orleans, June 7.—Quiet strength featured the cotton market today. In the early trading prices went 13 to 15 points over Saturday's last quotations. A period of dullness followed with more or less profit-taking on the long side but in the afternoon the market firmed up again and the close was at a net gain of 11 to 14 points. At the lowest of the session prices were at a rise of 7 to 11 points.

Better cables than due encouraged the buying and much of the steadiness later was caused by good spot accounts. The marking up of local spot quotations by six points stimulated the advance in the afternoon. Offerings were slender at all times and the market quickly responded to even small buying. Weather news was generally considered to be against prices but it aroused no selling power of consequence.

Cotto nfutures closing: July 9.28; October 9.67; December 9.86; January 9.96; March 10.17.

Spot cotton steady, six points up. Middling 9.19. Sales on the spot 7.26; to arrive 75.

STOCK MARKET IRREGULAR

Renewed Manipulation in Certain Specialties and Abrupt Decline in Canadian Pac.ic.

New York, June 7.—Renewed manipulation in the war and motor specialties and an abrupt decline in Canadian Pacific were the contrasting features of today's professional and irregular market. General Electric advanced 4 points to 1.66¼, its highest prices in several years, and General Motors gained 5, selling at 157, a new high record. Bethlehem Steel came forward in the last hour, rising 9½ to 159, or within a point of its best quotation, made exactly a month ago.

The decline in Canadian Pacific was the more inexplicable from the fact that it rose over three points in London.

There were reports that the British government had decided to take over some of the Canadian railroad shops for the manufacture of munitions. Coppers were again the strongest individual group. United States Steel rose and fell within a point range.

More gold was received from Canada, but exchange markets were featureless.

Bonds, steady, with some increase of "future" selling. Total sales, par value, aggregated $1,732,000.

United States bonds, unchanged on call.

BUNN AWARDED $15,000 IN SUIT AGAINST COAST LINE

Result of Trial in Edgecombe County. Damages for Personal Injuries.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 7.—A judgment for $15,000 against the Atlantic Coast Line was the finding of the Edgecombe county jury in the suit of W. A. Bunn for personal injuries. The case consumed much of the past week for trial, and with a brilliant array of counsel on either side every point has been hotly contested.

The suit was the outgrowth of the plaintiff's suffering a broken back by being caught under the side of a fallING box car. He is an invalid for life, being paralyzed in his lower limbs, while for weeks there was entertained little hope of his recovery. The railroad alleged failure on the part of the complainant to obey instructions, in that while at his duties as a car builder he took the side of the car apart at the top when it should have first been taken apart at the bottom. The injured man was wheeled to court in a rolling chair and along with him his wife and two babies.

COAST LINE HANDLED 13,000 VISITORS TO U. C. V. REUNION

Boy Scouts of Richmond Rendered Valiant Service to Veterans.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 7.—"Thirteen thousand, four hundred people, hundreds of them feeble, decrepid Confederate veterans, were handled by the Atlantic Coast Line into and out of Richmond during the first four days of this week," was the information given out by an official here Saturday, and in the next breath he remarked, "too much praise cannot be given the Richmond Boy Scouts for their work, and to them much of the credit is due that of this vast number of passengers there was not a single mishap or personal injury.

Commenting in appreciation further, the official explained how on the first day of the arrivals a detachment of 50 of Richmond's Boy Scouts had been assigned to helping service at Byrd street station and of how the manly young fellows helped the aged veterans with their luggage, saw them safely domiciled or performed any other task that might have been within their power that made for the safety or comfort of the visiting veterans. That they had solved the vexing problem in railroad operation during such times as these when people congregate and throng the station and thus prevent arriving passengers from leaving the trains without trouble was explained in that the Boy Scouts brought brass rods upwards of three feet long into play and formed a line from the train through the station to the street, and with a passageway sufficiently wide to allow the arrivals to pass they arranged for the delivery of all passengers to the curb with dispatch.

Wilson, N. C., June 7.—Promptly at noon today the new municipal administration took charge with Mr. E. F. Killette taking the oath as mayor, and Messrs Tom Hackney, Ernest Nadal, J. E. Riley, C. L. Perry and B. E. Barnes as members of the Board of Commissioners.

Miss Blanche Poyson, Largest Policewoman at the Exposition

Miss Blanche Poyson belongs the honor of being the only real special policewoman in the United States. Her star, bearing the inscription "Special Police, Toyland G. U.," is registered at the city hall, in San Francisco.

Miss Poyson, who stands 6 feet 4 inches without her boots, maintains law and order at "Toyland Grown Up," on the Zone, at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Miss Poyson weighs 235 pounds, she is but twenty-four years of age and, despite her official position, is as delightful a young woman as one will meet in a long day of sightseeing on the Zone. She is enthusiastic over her work and keeps watch on the great throngs which visit Toyland day and night. Miss Poyson has presided with wonderful success over crowds of many thousands of persons. The two midgets beside Miss Poyson have taken great fancy to the "copette," and the three have become fast friends during their off hours at Toyland.

Toyland Grown Up, where Miss Poyson reigns, is one of the largest and most costly concessions on the great amusement thoroughfare. It was built at a cost of $385,000 and covers 14 acres. All the toys of the story books read by youngsters and grownups are to be seen there in monster proportions, and in this land of romance and enchantment, with its giant toys, the giant policewoman presides with dignity and efficiency.

NOTICE.

To the Fishermen and Others Interested in the Fishing Industry of North Carolina.

At a meeting of the Fisheries Commission Board, held in Washington, North Carolina, on April 29th and 30th, 1915, a full membership of the Board being present, the following orders were passed:

First.—It was ordered that until January 1st, 1916, for experimental purposes, Ocean pound nets be allowed to extend to 200 yards of the shore, said nets not to be placed within three (3) miles of either side of any inlet and within one (1) mile of either side of Cape Lookout Bight.

Second.—That the fishing of pound nets shall be prohibited in the waters of Albemarle Sound and its tributaries from June 1st until January 1st.

Third.—That no net smaller than 1¼ inch bar before taring shall be fished in the waters of North Carolina, provided that this shall not apply to nets fished exclusively for shrimps and menhaden.

Provided further that skim and cast nets only shall be used for the catching of shrimps in Pender, New Hanover and Brunswick counties.

The following itinerary has been arranged:

Tuesday, June 8th, 1915, Edenton, N. C., from 9 A. M. till 1 P. M., at the Court House.

RIOTOUS OUTBREAK IN CEYLON BY BUDDHISTS

Moslem Shops Looted and Many Murders Committed

Disorder Due to Sudden Outbreak of Racial and Commercial Animosity: Not Directed Against European Population.

London, June 7.—That there has been a riotous outbreak in Ceylon by Buddhists against the Moslems, in which numerous Moslem shops were looted and many murders occurred, is told in an official communication made public here tonight.

The official statement says:

"The Governor of Ceylon reports that on the 28th of May,the birthday of Buddha, Moslem shops in Kandy were looted by Buddhists. The outbreak was quelled in Kandy but was diffused through the central province where it was repressed by the arrival of a military detachment.

"On the 31st of May there was a later outbreak at Colombo which subsequently spread south. Martial law has been proclaimed in the western, central, southern, northwestern and Sabara-Gamuwa provinces.

"On the 3rd of June the governor left Kandy quiet and proceeded to Colombo, where he found the town quiet, but the district perturbed. He hopes to suppress the disorder in a few days.

"The disorder is due to a sudden outbreak of racial and commercial animosity and is not directed against the European population or the Colonial government. Much Moslem merchandise has been destroyed. There have been numerous murders and several rioters were shot.

"The latest telegrams state that the situation is in hand and improving."

America education has passed. The propaganda for enlarged and improved educational machinery and organization has won. In nearly all of our states education as an opportunity for every youth has been achieved. The watchword henceforth is to be not more education but better education. And this better education, we all concede, can come only through better teachers. How to get better teachers is a question much discussed: "Higher salaries," says one: "Better technical training," says another; "more expensive equipment in buildings, laboratories, libraries, playgrounds," say still others.

"But success in this difficult field, I believe, lies rather in magnifying the office of the teacher and in giving to education itself a larger meaning and mission for our whole national life. Hirelings never can give the truest service. The measuring of the man by the wage scale can never lift teaching above a stale and unprofitable business.

"Over against this conception we must set the doctrine of the teacher as a worker at the hard tasks of society, as a builder of civilization, who, if he be efficient enough, may become a shaping, transforming influence must come this high leadership of ideas and ideals in the service of the republic. The measure of the teacher's influence is not the amount of quality of intellectual nourishment that he may dole out to docile children, but the kind of guidance he gives to individual minds, to communities, and to states, and the moral energy that he succeeds in producing. And teachers of this higher sort can never be bought.

"Expert training is not the supreme need, either; schools of all grades need not so much experts in the several branches of learning, but men and women of ideas and power. The too exclusive use of scholarship tests in the selecting of teachers is, in my judgment, one of the gravest defects in modern education, especially in our American colleges and universities. Men and women of ideas and originating power are needed in times, but they would seem especially needed in times of unsettlement and rapid change. And in spite of all misgivings, most competent men actually at the work of upbuilding and rebuilding Southern civilization believe that we are standing now at the very threshold of a new era of growth and development. The belief itself, even if it were not so amply justified by the facts, would tend to produce the expected result; an age of hopefulness is apt to be an age of achievement.

"I do not underestimate equipment and organization, but I would emphasize the fact, which we so often overlook in our time, that these things are of no value except in so far as they furnish the means by which competent men and women may work effectively. The one sure way to promote the welfare of the State and nation is to build soundness into the mind and character of the youth of our country. Those who have command of this source of power must not mistake themselves or be mistaken by others for innocent pedagogues and school-keepers. Affording as it does opportunity for the exercise of creative ability and for a high order of usefulness, life for us teachers, we ought to feel, is not a week and passive thing, but a great and noble calling.

"Despite some superficial appearances to the contrary and despite some real difficulties that must be overcome. I am convinced that this section has the best chance in America to build up at least a few, I will not say big, but genuinely great, educational institutions within this generation. And therefore I think theer never was in the history of the world a more inviting field for teachers with building power than right here and now; and this sort of teacher is going to be developed and held, not by institutions that put their faith in big material resources, but rather by those that are dedicated to sound ideas and disciplined by sacrifice in the causes of men; it is never the material but the ideal that abides and commands.

"The elevation of the teaching profession then does not depend upon higher salaries, better technical training, or more elaborate equipment, but upon giving it the proper dignity and importance in our life. This involves a new and truer popular understanding of education. And education we must come to regard, not as an agency for making skilled wage earners or experts in knowledge, but for developing manhood. This defining of education to include not merely the training of the hands or the mind but the shaping of the whole personality makes the teaching profession a great art in which excellence is as well worth striving for as in poetry or architecture and in which success is perhaps harder to achieve, for this art deals with the most difficult as well as the most precious material in the world."

Baccalaureate Address.

Speaking on Religious Education, and making reference to the words of President Woodrow Wilson for the interpretation of his theme, in which he appealed to the members of the graduating class "to find out and do what they were fitted for," Dr. Franklin N. Parker delivered the baccalaureate address at Trinity College last night, which marked the formal opening of the 56th commencement. Fully 1,500 or 1,600 people coming from various parts of this and the surrounding states were present to hear the scholarly and masterful address, completely filling the large auditorium of Craven Memorial hall.

Prior to the presentation of the speaker by President W. P. Few, invocation was made by Dr. John Jeter Hurtt, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Durham, and a short and impressive musical program was rendered under the direction of T. E. Cheek by a large choir of trained voices.

At the close of the address President Few introduced Beall H. Siler, president of the graduating class, who in behalf of the entire student body presented to Dr. Parker, as an expression of the high esteem held for his past services and his friendly association among the college boys, a handsome silver loving cup. After making a reference by his coming departure from this institution to the chair of systematic theology at Emory University, the senior turning to Dr. Parker said, "Every one of us hate to see you leave; and we give you this cup brim full of the best wishes of Trinity College."

In beginning his address, Dr. Parker stated that it was his hope that he was representing not only his own views but the animating spirit of Trinity College, and that this spirit represented not merely an institution for learning but a preparation for lives dedicated to the service of mankind, country, and God. He stated that he measured everything and everybody, with no exceptions whatsoever, by the standard of Christ. Even purely social questions must be measured by this life, and human beings compare themselves and others by Christ.

For the Saviour of the world so lived that He left not only an example but a consciousness among men that even now He lives.

The whole life of individuals in the early stages, asserted the speaker, was a training for service; and this training, after all, is what constitutes education. He then made the biblical reference in connection with the idea, "I am among you as he that serveth." The main effort in striving for an education is to prepare for achievement.

"The most remarkable thing about human beings is that they can be made to achieve. Unlike the lower life of animals, who can only be taught to perform certain actions, man can do anything. With him progress is limitless. The creation in indiciduals to achieve does not involve an addition; for the human can not be added to; he enters the world complete. But he can be changed; God intended that might create the power to do things. And the desire to accomplish something worth while is what prompts the student to delve into the various branches of study which confront him. He sees, as if in a vision, something greater behind each effort which he makes.

"To achieve means to serve. And if your young lives can pour themselves into some outside life, if they can really serve, then there grows in you a wonderful influence and power. Influence can not be by selfish motives; it comes only through service.

"The early stages of education are very much a matter of restraint, a sort of absolutism; but in absolute things filled with submission there is, though, a discipline. The average student devotes himself to his books because he is required to. Education later broadens, and instead of the knowledge contained in text books the student learned to learn from facts, events, and people. I am not, however, criticising books; they serve their purpose, but everyone of them have been written only after a fact or theory was presented. The highest education becomes, then, a matter of learning from facts, a learning acquired with no authority upon which to fall back."

Addressing himself at this juncture to the graduating class, the speaker continued, "The choice of your life's work is a good fact to make you look out to grasp something, and all of you who are facing this problem are learning something."

AGE NO BAR

Everybody in Wilmington is Eligible.

Old people stooped with suffering,
Middle aged, courageously fighting,
Youth, protesting impatiently;
Children, unable to explain;
All in misery from their kidneys.
Perhaps a little backache, first.
Urinary disorders, dropsy may quickly follow.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Are endorsed by thousands.

Here's Wilmington testimony.

Mrs. W. F. Benton, 322 S. Fourth St., Wilmington, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a household medicine with us and we are never without them. Whenever anyone of us have anything wrong with our kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills never fail to give quick relief. I find that Doan's Kidney Pills are especially good for backache."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy — get Doan's Kidney Pills — the same that Mrs. Benton recommends. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

in the wood to the south of Ville-Au-Bois.

"In Champagne, near Mesnile, troops brought by the Germans from their second line to their first line probably with a view to an attack have been dispersed by our artillery.

"At Vauquois, by way of reprisal, we sprayed flaming liquid on the trenches of the enemy, who replied with a bombardment.

"On the rest of the front there is nothing to report."

NEWS FROM CONSTANTINE MOST ENCOURAGING YET.

Greek King's Temperature Much Lower Yesterday at Noon.

Washington, June 7.—A cablegram dated Athens today and received at the Greek legation here tonight said:

"At noon his majesty's temperature was 37.6 degrees centigrade (99.68 Fahrenheit)."

This was the most encouraging news heard by the legation since the King became critically ill. Confidence was expressed by officials that since the King's temperature had been reduced virtually to normal, the crisis must have been passed.

GERMANS CONTINUING WITHOUT RELAXATION OFFENSIVE IN THE EAST

Teutonic allies continued their victorious battle. They drove back the enemy towards Wyznie northeast of Mosciska. Part of the army under General Linsingen has crossed the Dniester at Zurawna and has taken the hill north of the eastern bank by storm. Further south the pursuit reached the Nowica-Kaluss-Tomaszowce line. The number of prisoners taken has been increased to more than 13,000.

AUSTRIAN OFFICIAL REPORT.

More Than 30,000 Prisoners Captured Since June 1 Near Przemysl.

Vienna, via London, June 7.—The following statement was issued tonight by the Austrian war office:

"The attacks of the Central Austro-German forces are making considerable progress north of Mosciska (Galicia). General Linsingen's army, after storming a bridgehead at Zurawna, gained a firm footing on the northern bank of the Dneister.

"In the battles near Przemysl more than 30,000 prisoners have been captured since June 1.

"In the southern war theatre our frontier troops have been successful in several minor engagements. The Italians appear to be pushing forward with strong forces against the Isonzo."

FROM BERLIN BY WIRELESS.

Official Reports of "Successful" Dirigible Raids on England.

Berlin, June 7. by Wireless to Sayville, N. Y.—An official statement issued today says:

"On the night of June 4-5 German naval dirigibles attacked the fortified mouth of the Humber (on the east coast of England) the naval port of Harwich (in Essex) England, and the harbor establishment at Harwich. They were conspicuously successful. Many bombs were dropped and there was a large number of explosions. One particularly violent explosion was that of a gas tank or oil tank which was hit. Bombs were dropped on the railroad depot.

"German airships were shot at vigorously by guns on land and on ships. They were not hit and returned safely."

The raid of German dirigibles over the east coast of England on the night of June 4-5 was announced on Saturday in a brief statement made officially at London, but no details of the places visited or damage done were given.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION DOING BIG WORK ALREADY.

Has Supervision of Probably $1,000,000 Worth of Road Work.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 7.—Although the North Carolina Highway Commission has been formed and at work for only a very few months, its work is really going forward with leaps and bounds, the commission having within the past three months assumed the supervision, through its engineers, of highway construction in many counties, representing an outlay of probably one million dollars. State Highway Engineer W. S. Fallis, who is the active representative of the commission, is directing this work with the assistance of other engineers called into service as the demands require.

This work is largely in Person, Rockingham, Mitchell, Avery, Caldwell, Swain, Chatham, Edgecombe, Wilkes, Surry, Davidson, Watauga Ashe and Alleghany counties. The State Highway Commissioners, Guy C. Roberts, Col. Benehan Cameron, E. C. Duncan, Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, Prof. W. C. Riddick and Prof. E. F. Hickerson, are each taking the keenest sort of personal interest in the activities of the commission and its representatives and the first year of the commission's work is sure to show an amazing aggregate of achievements.

CONCRETE PLANS FOR CARRYING OUT PROGRAMME AGREED UPON

Year's Work Laid Out for Southern Conference for Education.

Washington, June 7.—Concerete plans for carrying out during the coming year the programme agreed upon at the recent Chattanooga meeting of the Southern Conference for Education and Inquiry were made here today by the new executive board of the conference.

The board which succeeds to the work formerly done by the Peabody Education Fund and the Southern Education Board, decided to continue its permanent headquarters in Washington. Orgonization was effected by electing Representative J. B. Aswell, of Louisiana, chairman; Dr. A. P. Bourland to succeed himself as secretary for a term of four years, and T. R. Preston, of Chattanooga, treasurer for a similar term.

Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, was chosen chairman of the executive committee, and the board named J. E. Swearingen, of South Carolina, as chairman of the superintendents' conference, and Dr. A. F. Watkins, president of Millsaps College, Mississippi, as chairman of the college conference.

NINTH DISTRICT JUNIORS MEET

Entertained Last Night by Junior Councils of Raleigh.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 7.—Capital City Council Junior Order United American Mechanics entertained tonight the Ninth district meeting composed of representatives of the councils in Wake, Vance, Harnett, Franklin and Johnston counties. District Deputy Bland G. Mitchell presided. There were stirring patriotic addresses and a service of refreshments. The welcome address was by W. A. Cooper, State vice councilor. The councils are shown to be in fine working condition.

ELBERT HUBBARD'S WILL FILED.

Several Children by First Marriage Not Mentioned.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 7.—The wills of Elbert S. Hubbard and his wife, who lost their lives in the Lusitania disaster, were filed here today. The documents are almost identical and provide that after the death of both the estate shall be divided equally between Elbert Hubbard II, son, and Miriam, daughter. Several other children by Hubbard's first marriage are not mentioned in the will.

The value of the estate is problematical, but it is known Mr. Hubbard carried insurance policies amounting to over $100,000 and owned considerable real estate at East Aurora.

rassing it with a rifle fire while the German craft replied with rifles and machine guns.

"The opportunity to use bombs did not come until the Zeppelin was compelled to decrease its speed as it was approaching its hangar near Ghent. Warneford's bombs were effective. Unfortunately the airship crashed down upon the Beguinage De Sainte Elizabeth, one of the best known convents in Belgium.

"The burning mass fired the building, which were filled with nuns and 700 Belgian women and children refugees. Terrible scenes followed. A man bent on rescue leaped from a window with a child in his arm and both of them were killed.

"The Zeppelin was one of the largest yet seen in Belgium. It was returning from a scouting expedition along the Belgian coast."

RUSSIAN STEAMER IS SUNK IN BALTIC

the coast, where they may have been taken prisoners by the Turks."

The French mine layer Casa Blanda was of 495 tons and 252 feet long. She had a complement of 128 men.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK

Star of the West Destroyed by a German Submarine.

London, June 7.—A dispatch from Aberdeen says the British steamer Star of the West has been sunk by a German submarine. A trawler brought the crew into Aberdeen.

The Star of the West, was a very small ship. She was 64 tons and 113 feet long and was owned in Aberdeen.

NO REPORT ON NEBRASKAN.

German Submarine Flotilla Says Nothing Concerning American Ship.

Berlin, via London, June 7.—No report has been received from the submarine flotilla covering the torpedoing recently off the coast of Ireland of the American steamer Nebraskan. It is believed that all the submarines out at the time have returned.

Several under-water boats were in the general vicinity where the explosion damaged the Nebraskan, but none has reported any attack on a steamer in the place or at the time the Nebraskan was damaged.

BRITISH BARK SUNK.

The Sunlight, of Liverpool, Destroyed by German Submarine.

London, June 7.—The British bark Sunlight, of Liverpool, 1,298 net tons, has been sunk by a German submarine. The captain and crew arrived at Queenstown today. They said they were given time to take to their boats. The Sunlight left Macoris, Santo Domingo, May 1 for the Clyde.

The trawler Dromic, of Hull, also has been sent to the bottom by a submarine. The crew escaped and have been landed at Peterhead.

SCHOONER WEHRUM TOWED INTO HAMPTON ROADS WATERLOGGED

Crew of Schooner Crosby Rescued by Tug Wellington.

Norfolk, Va., June 7.—The coast guard cutter Onondaga tonight towed the waterlogged and dismantled schooner C. C. Wehrum into Hampton Roads, and landed her crew of seven men in this city. The Onondaga took the crew off the vessel last Saturday, off False Cape and stood by until this morning when she was able to get a line to the disabled craft. The Wehrum was commanded by Captain Wilbert.

Norfolk, Va., June 7.—According to a wireless message received at the navy yar dtoday from the government tug Patuxent the tug Wellington has rescued the crew of the schooner Mary L. Crosby at sea and will land them at Philadelphia.

The Patuxent sighted the Wellington off Hatteras with several barges in tow. No mention was made of the fate of the Crosby in the message received here. The Wellington was supplied with provisions by the Patuxent.

LOOK OUT FOR SWINDLERS

Gridiron Club Issues Warning to Unsuspecting Victims.

Washington, D. C., June 7.—Edgar C. Snyder, president of the Gridiron Club, of this city, in view of the continued operations of a gang of swindlers, who are engaged in selling associate memberships in the club to prominent persons throughout the country, warns the public against these imposters and calls upon the victims of these clever crooks to assist the club in bringing them to justice.

"The Gridiron Club is in all essentials a dining club," said Mr. Snyder. "It has never contemplated building a clubhouse nor has it at any time considered the enlargement of its associate membership list. Under the constitution of the Gridiron Club its active membership is limited to fifty, the prerequisite qualification for active membership being that the applicant shall be an accredited newspaper correspondent with actual service in Washington for a period of two years immediately preceding his nomination. The associated membership list is made up solely of active members who have removed from Washington. The club has no honorary members. The entire membership of the Gridiron club as the present time is 81, divided as follows: Active members, fifty; associated members, twenty-one; limited members, ten."

New York, June 7.—The woman suffrage question occupied an important place in addresses delivered tonight at the formal opening here of the fifth biennial convention of the National Women's Trade Union League of America. Speakers included Samuel Gompers, Mrs. Raymond Robins, national president of the Trade Union League, and Congressman Meyer London, of New York.

Richmond, Va., June 7.—Dr. Lee Whitfield Staton, 59, a widely known physician of this city, was almost instantly killed tonight when a wheel came off the carriage in which he was riding and he was thrown to the street, alighting on his head.

Wilmington, N. C., June 4, 1915.

Sealed bids will be received for the sale of Two School Houses and Lots in Districts No. 3, and No. 4, Carver's Creek Township until July 1st, and then publicly opened. Both buildings are new and each lot contains two acres.

Rights are reserved to reject any and all bids.

THAT TERRIBLE BACKACHE

from which so many women suffer is significant of organic trouble. It tells, with other symptoms, such as headaches, nervousness and depression, that nature requires assistance. For forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a simple remedy made from roots and herbs, has been the one effective remedy in such cases. It speedily removes the cause and restores the system to a healthy normal condition.

This should be used on Peanuts. If you will put from 400 to 600 lbs. per acre, we think the Peanuts would be increased in weight from 20 to 25 per cent. But if it only increased them ten per cent., then it would pay well to use it. No Peanuts should be tended without applying Land Plaster on them.
